Police Chief Says Traffic Accidents Are Fewer; More Officers Needed

Police Chief Raymond VanBuren's annual report shows an increase in arrests, lower traffic mishaps, and a need for more men on the force.

The 63rd annual report, presented to the police board yesterday, shows 1,028 arrests in 1954, and 151 accidents in which one person was killed and 216 injured.

Arrests were 248 above the 1953 total, but the chief reported "less cases of juvenile delinquency this year." He noted however "we filed more petitions to children's court . . . because most of the children had been in trouble before."

Questioned for various crimes, he said, were 50 children under 16 years old. "A total of 34 petions were filed with children's court, 22 of the children have appeared in court, and 12 are awaiting court."

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS were three under 1953, when three persons were killed and 202 injured. The 1952 report showed only 142 traffic mishaps, but four persons were killed and 199 injured.

The department now has 48 officers, four full-time special policemen, nine on school traffic patrol, and a garage attendant, he said. The regular force has five vacancies based on the full quota of 53 as required when the 40-hour work week became effective. Besides the chief there are 38 patrolmen, three lieutenants, four sergeants, and two detectives.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission, he said, has been requested to furnish the police board with a list so that appointments may be made to fill the vacancies.

Also, he noted, "for the past year and a half two patrolmen have been acting as sergeants with no increase in pay. There should be two appointments as sergeants from the sergeants' civil service list."

THE REPORT NOTES the retirement of Patrolman Elbert L. Soper on April 1, 1954, and the resignation of Kenneth Gaffney on Sept. 3, 1954. Officer Earl Schoonmaker was granted sick leave from Jan. 1 to July 1, 1955.

Of the department's five radio cars and three motorcycles, he suggested trading in two old for new patrol cars. Also noting that one of the motorcycles was damaged in an accident last fall, he said it should be replaced. Last year 3118 police radio calls were sent from headquarters to the cars.

Among recommendations to be expected during the year, he indicated, were more one-way streets and extension of parking meters in the uptown and central Broadway areas.

THE CHIEF'S REPORT on work of the detectives showed that of a total of $15,449.91 reported in losses by theft, $9,-

Court Sets February Execution

Albany, Jan. 21 (AP) — The Court of Appeals today set the week of Feb. 21 for the execution of three men convicted of the holdup-slaying of a Readers Digest messenger in 1950.

It was the sixth time the state's highest court had set a date for the electrocution of Calman Cooper, 47, Nathan Wissner, 43, and Harry A. Stein, 56, all of New York city.

Their attorney, Nathan Kestnbaum, has said he plans to ask the U. S. Court of Appeals for another stay of execution. If this should fail, Kestnbaum has said, he will carry his request to the U. S. Supreme Court.

COOPER, W. ER and [illegible]ein were convicted in December, 1950, of killing Andrew Petrini, 30, a messenger for the Readers Digest, on the magazine's grounds near Chappaqua, Westchester county.

The state's highest tribunal twice upheld the convictions, and the U. S. Supreme Court refused to hear an appeal.

The trio is in the death house at Sing Sing Prison.

The last stay of execution was granted in New York city by Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman on Jan. 12, just one day before the men had been scheduled to die. But, on Jan. 17, Kaufman refused to set aside the convictions and death sentences on the ground that the constitutional rights of the three had been fully preserved in the state courts.

KAUFMAN ALSO dismissed, as without merit, the defense contention that the three had been deprived of a fair trial because the prosecution allegedly had planted a "Yiddish speaking" plainclothes patrolman near the defense table to overhear their conversations during the trial.

The latest execution date is only four weeks away. The tribunal normally sets execution dates eight weeks in advance. A court attache explained, however, that the law directs the court to set execution dates not less than four weeks or more than eight weeks in advance.

The robbers got about $5,000 in cash and $35,000 in non-negotiable securities.

Communists Are Blamed

Seoul, Jan. 21 (AP)—South Korea said today the Communists were responsible for yesterday's shooting of a light U. S. Army plane near the Korean demilitarized zone in which a soldier was killed and an officer wounded. Hong Kee Karl, South Korean government spokesman urged the United States to take "action  to stop these Communist incursions into our territory." He added Korea's other UN allies should "recognize publicly that the armistice no longer exists as a result of the repeated and flagrant violation of truce terms by the Reds."

Hearings Are Barred

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee has barred one-man hearings for the taking of sworn testimony by its investigating units, except on a two-thirds vote of the members. This action, taken at a closed-door meeting yesterday and not announced, came to light today through interviews with several members of the committee.

United Nations Tells of Stand

United Nations, Jan. 21 (AP)—The United Nations announced today Premier Chou En-lai has agreed to permit relatives to visit 17 Americans held in Chinese jails.

This agreement was reached at the conference in Peiping between UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and the Premier-Foreign Minister of Red China.

The United Nations issued the following note disclosing this action:

"As is being announced this morning from Peiping, Premier Chou En-lai, during his talks with Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, indicated that the government of the People's Republic of China would provide facilities for relatives to visit those United States personnel who had been convicted and those whose cases were under investigation, if they should wish to do so and that the Red Cross Society of China would make all the arrangements necessary."

(PEIPING RADIO, heard in San Francisco, simultaneously broadcast a similar announcement. It was the first time Peiping had mentioned that Hammarskjold's conferences with Chou might have had anything to do with the prisoners.)

The U. S. personnel referred to in the announcement means the 11 aviators who were convicted on spy charges, two civilians who were seized as spies but who were not under army control, and four jet pilots whose cases are being investigated by the Chinese.

It was said the question of giving visas to the relatives to visit the personnel would be up to the U. S. government.

HAMMARSKJOLD informed Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., U. S. delegate, of this action at his first talk with him on Jan. 13 immediately upon his return from his globe-girdling trip.

Hammarskjold also told Secretary of State Dulles, when he conferred with him in Washington this week, that he had received assurances of the well-being of the prisoners. There was no indications here as to what assurances Hammarskjold received, but it was known that these assurances were made in more than verbal ways.

No member of Hammarskjold's party, however, went to see the prisoners personally.

THE UN IS LEAVING it up to the United States to inform the families of the men of these assurances. It was believed here that if any of the relatives desired to see the prisoners they would have to act first to get visas and then they might work

Knowland Has Idea 800 Held

Chicago, Jan. 21 (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R.-Calif.) says he believes Red China holds "something over 800 other GIs" in prison besides the 15 American airmen they acknowledge holding.

In a speech to the Cicero Manufacturing' Assn., last night, the Senate minority leader said: "We have strong reason to believe they hold more than the 15 they acknowledge of holding."

THESE MEN SHOWED up neither in the little or big switch prisoner exchange following the Korean truce in 1953, Knowland said. Names of the imprisoned Americans, he said, were learned from Red propaganda broadcasts, other released POWS and Pentagon reports.

Knowland said a compilation of the various reports led him to the strong belief the Red Chinese held "several hundred other GIs in prison enclosures." He later set the figure at "something over 800 other GIs."

HE SAID THE REDS hold four "fighter airmen" plus the 11 U. S. airmen already sentenced to 4 to 10 year prison terms on trumped up spy charges. Another 32 civilians, including clergymen, businessmen

IBM Plant Construction Progresses 'On Schedule'

Construction at the new IBM plant in the town of Ulster is "progressing on schedule" it was stated by a company spokesman today. By the first part of February a small force will begin to move into the building and this will be added to as required.

"By the end of February we expect about 600 workers will be occupying the northerly end of the manufacturing portion of the building," the spokesman said.

This force will be steadily increased as progress on construction moves forward and by May first it is expected, under a schedule now drawn, there will be 780 employed in the plant. This number will be increased under a progressive schedule until the capacity of the plant has been reached and full operations in force.

Costa Rican Troops Cut Off Rebels

Figueres, Somoza to Honor Area; Latter to Interne Escaping Group

San Jose, Costa Rica, Jan. 21 (AP)—Unofficial reports said today Loyalist troops have chased rebel garrisons out of Puerto solely and moved into La Cruz in operations at the edge of the newly proclaimed buffer zone between Costa Rica and Nicaragua.

These reports, from usually reliable sources, said the rebel forces were withdrawing toward the Nicaraguan frontier. Neutral ground and air observers of the inter-American Peace Commission were patrolling a belt of 18 miles long in that area to keep the rebellion from touching off a war between the two Latin American neighbors.

PRESUMABLY the rebels were hit by a flanking group commanded by Costa Rican Col. Frank Marshall. A highly authoritative source confirmed that Marshall's column struck late yesterday at La Cruz, a rebel strong point on the inter-American highway little more than three miles by air from the Nicaraguan frontier and only about 10 miles by the winding highway.

Puerto Soley, one of the first invasion points, is a Pacific coastal hamlet about six miles southwest of La Cruz.

Launching its major peace-preservation effort, the five-nation commission of the Organization of American States dispatched 23 officers to patrol the neutral zone 18 miles long and 6 miles wide which the commission established yesterday along the border north of the fighting area.

IN ACCEPTING the neutral zone proposal, both Costa Rican President Jose Figueres and Nicaraguan President Anastasio Somoza agreed to keep their troops out of the area and their planes out of the air above it.

Somoza already has announced he would interne any of the Costa Rican rebels chased across his border. The demilitarized area runs athwart the rebels' natural escape route, between Pacific Ocean and Lake Nicaragua.

In setting up the buffer zone, the OAS Commission emphasized that it was not seeking a cease-fire in the rebellion, but only to keep the Costa Ricans and the Nicaraguans from tangling. The commission made its proposal after Somoza charged Costa Rican planes attacking the rebel headquarters Wednesday had violated Nicaraguan territory. He warned further border violations would have "grave" consequences.

ASIDE FROM the Loyalist flanking operation, the chief military activity appeared to be strafing of rebel positions by the four F51 Mustang fighters the United States turned over to Costa Rica earlier this week. Government communiques made no mention of ground fighting.

The rebel radio also claimed both sides had suffered "enormous casualties. In San Jose, the total Loyalist dead were reckoned at less than a half dozen.

To patrol the neutral zone, the Peace Commission now has a total of 59 air force and army officers, including 35 from the United States, 11 Mexicans, 11 Ecuador, 1 Paraguyan and 1 Brazilian. The U. S. contingent is headed by U. S. air force Col. Willie Lewis of Washington, D. C. and Benton, Ill.

Air observation is carried out largely by U. S. Navy Martin Marlin bombers, assisted by one plane from Ecuador and two which arrived yesterday from Mexico. Uruguay also is sending a plane.

REPORTS ON PRISON MUTINY—Reporters surround the Rev. Edward H. Hartigan, Catholic chaplain of Massachusetts State Prison in Boston, as he reads a statement regarding his talk with four convicts who are holding five guards and six inmates as hostages. ((NEA Telephoto)

Committee Confers With Prison Rebels

Boston, Jan. 21 (AP)—A seven man committee, including two editors, prison officials and the president of the Boston Bar Association, conferred early today with the four rebel convicts at Massachusetts State Prison, in efforts to end a four-day stalemate.

One committee member said the group had met with the rebellious quartet in efforts to obtain release of five hostage guards and six other inmates held in a cell block at the old prison since early Tuesday.

The committee plans another meeting at the prison today.

Its members are:

Sumner H. Babcock, president of the Boston Bar Assn.; the Rev. John J. Grant, associate editor of The Pilot, Boston's Catholic archdiocesan paper; Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor; the Rev. Edward Hartigan, Catholic chaplain at the prison; the Rev. Howard Kellett, Protestant chaplain; Dr. Samuel Merlin, prison physician, and Patrick J. McDonough, a member of the executive (or governor's) council.

Canham said the "situation is so delicate the committee members agreed not to talk until they can tell everything."

Earlier four grim prison officials went into the prison from the warden's office for a two-hour stay but declined to give any details of the trip.

The quartet, escorted by an armed guard, emerged from the prison and entered the warden's office, ignoring reporters' questions except to say "No comment."

They had to pass more than 50 newsmen, photographers, and radio and television men. The jam around the four was so bad that one newsman was knocked to the floor and several were jostled.

The four who made the surprise trip into the prison are Warden John J. O'Brien, State Commissioner of Correction E. Lawrence Spurr, state police head Otis M. Whitney and state police Capt. John Mitchell.

The before-dawn burst of activity at the prison resulted in numerous reports, including the erroneous report that a National Guard tank was moved from its spot outside the wall to a position inside the wall.

Cities Held With Force By Troops

President Puts Blame on Two

Guatemala, Jan. 21 (AP)—The government pushed a roundup of Communists and supporters of ex-President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman today after beating down an uprising aimed at unseating anti-Red President Carlos Castillo Armas. At least 100 persons already were under arrest.

Government troops held Guatemala City and other strategic centers in an armed grip. Castillo Armas announced that 10 persons were killed and an undetermined number wounded in a brief clash yesterday between loyal forces and rebels seeking to capture Aurora Air Force Base, outside the capital. He blamed the Communists and Arbenz' supporters for the revolt.

THE ANTI-RED GOVERNMENT—in office less than seven months — promptly declared a state of siege, a kind of modified martial law. But authorities announced they were in control of the situation throughout the country.

Machinegun-carrying soldiers mounted tight guard on military posts and strategic points. A curfew went into effect in the capital, with no unauthorized person allowed on the streets after 10 p. m.

Press censorship was ordered under the state of siege but so far no checks were placed on foreign correspondents' dispatches.

THE OUTBREAK was the most serious attempt thus far to unseat the anti-Communist president who gained power last June when he led a revolt that drove out Arbenz' Red-supported government. The ousted President recently went from his exile residence in Mexico to Switzerland, where he was granted Swiss citizenship because his father had been born in that country.

Castillo Armas charged that one of the leaders of the uprising was Francisco Cosenza, Arbenz' ambassador to Italy and reportedly a friend of the ex-President. Cosenza returned to Guatemala recently and was jailed briefly but released.

The government did not indicate whether he had been picked up again.

THE PRESIDENT told a news conference that others implicated included civilians and disgruntled military men. No high officers in his government were involved, he added, but some demoted military men who held

U.S. Thinks Army, Navy Men Slaves

Americans May Be In Soviet Camps

Berlin, Jan. 21 (AP)—U. S. officials speculated today that perhaps a score of American soldiers and navy fliers still may be trapped in Soviet slave labor camps.

The army disclosed that 12 American soldiers have been missing from Berlin for a considerable length of time, one for more than five years. The army said it has no information on their whereabouts, but officials added that some or all may be in the Kremlin's Arctic camps, lost in a maelstrom of hundreds of thousands of men and women of all nationalities.

EIGHT AIRMEN from a navy privateer shot down in the Baltic in 1950 also may be in one of the Soviets' Arctic camps. John H. Noble of Detroit, who was released two weeks ago after nine years in captivity, said he had heard eight men of the crew of 10 had been rescued by the Soviets and were being held.

The return yesterday of Pvt. William A. Verdine of Starks, La., from six years of captivity cleared up only those three

Reds Menace Tachen Islands

Taipeh, Formosa, Jan. 21 (AP)—Communist China held undisputed possession of tiny Yikiangshan island today and its battle-tested amphibious striking power menaced the nearby strategic Tachen Islands 200 miles north of Formosa.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry said today the 720 Nationalist guerrillas on Yikiangshan had been wiped out to the last man.

RESISTANCE CRASHED on the island, the ministry said, at 9:12 p. m. last night, 61 hours 12 minutes after Chinese Red invaders landed behind pulverizing naval and air bombardment.

"Our brave guerrillas accomplished their anti-Communist, resist Russia and territory protection duty and all of them died gloriously in action," the ministry said. "Such valor has gained respect and admiration the world over."

(Peiping Radio, however, insisted that all fighting had ended Tuesday, the same day its amphibious invaders struck in overwhelming force.

(THE BROADCAST, heard in Tokyo, said the Communists had killed about 500 Nationalist troops, captured more than 550 and seized stores of guns and ammunition.

(Another Peiping broadcast hailed the "liberation" of Yikiangshan as a victory which has "inspired the nation in its struggles to liberate Taiwan (Formosa)."

(The bristling broadcast,

New Jersey Pair Is Found Dead

A metropolitan area radio engineer, 59, and the 37-year-old wife of a steamship corporation executive ended their lives in an apparent suicide pact in a wooded lane off the Glenerie Lake road near Route 9W north of Kingston.

Suicide verdicts were issued today by Coroner Francis J. McCardle in the deaths of Reuben Royal Leadbeater, of 272 Tom Hunter road, Fort Lee, N. J., a radio engineer employed the past 27 years by New York University, and Rigmor Johanne Lindquist, 37, housewife, of 516 East Palisades avenue, Englewood, N. J.

THEIR BODIES had been discovered in the back seat of Leadbeater's 1950 car soon after noon Thursday.

Both were partly covered by a blanket, state police reported, and they died of asphyxiation due to inhaling the fumes of a small tank of liquid menthyl chloride gas, Coroner McCardle said.

Sgt. Arthur A. Reilly of the state police bureau of criminal investigation said the pair apparently parked in the lane Wednesday night, since various persons remembered seeing the automobile, but had not investigated closely until the following noon.

TRACING THE LICENSE number of the automobile, authorities established tentative identities of the man and woman in the early afternoon, and last night family members came to Kingston to complete the identification.

Both were married, Coroner McCardle said. Leadbeater is survived by his wife and a son, Robert Louis Leadbeater, recently discharged from the army and living with his parents at the Fort Lee address.

MRS. LINDQUIST is survived by her husband, Harry Lindquist, an executive of the Norwegian Steamship Corporation, and they have a son, 7, the coroner said.

Sgt. Reilly, who investigated with Trooper M. J. Valliant of the Kingston state police station, said Englewood police had

Roof Garden, Pool Are Considered for Clinton

At the annual meeting of directors, Thursday, it was announced consideration is being given to a roof garden and swimming pool for the use of quests, according to State Senator Arthur H. Wicks, president of the Kingston Community Hotel Corporation, which operates the Governor Clinton.

Wicks in making the announcement predicted "phenomenal growth" in the near future for this area due to the opening of the state thruway, the influx of new industry sparked by the coming IBM and the completion of the new bridge across the Hudson river between Kingston and Rhinecliff.

"Our hotel will contribute to community benefits and prosper itself in turn," the senator said.

Wicks reported 1954 a successful year financially and pointed out improvements made, the Launching its major peace-preservation effort, the five-nation commission of the Organization of American States dispatched 23 officers to patrol the neutral zone 18 miles long and 6 miles wide which the commission established yesterday along the border north of the fighting area.

IN ACCEPTING the neutral zone proposal, both Costa Rican President Jose Figueres and Nicaraguan President Anastasio Somoza agreed to keep their troops out of the area and their planes out of the air above it.

Somoza already has announced he would interne any of the Costa Rican rebels chased across his border. The demilitarized area runs athwart the rebels' natural escape route, between Pacific Ocean and Lake Nicaragua.

In setting up the buffer zone, the OAS Commission emphasized that it was not seeking a cease-fire in the rebellion, but only to keep the Costa Ricans and the Nicaraguans from tangling. The commission made its proposal after Somoza charged Costa Rican planes attacking the rebel headquarters Wednesday had violated Nicaraguan territory. He warned further border violations would have "grave" consequences.

ASIDE FROM the Loyalist flanking operation, the chief military activity appeared to be strafing of rebel positions by the four F51 Mustang fighters the United States turned over to Costa Rica earlier this week. Government communiques made no mention of ground fighting.

The rebel radio also claimed both sides had suffered "enormous casualties. In San Jose, the total Loyalist dead were reckoned at less than a half dozen.

To patrol the neutral zone, the Peace Commission now has a total of 59 air force and army officers, including 35 from the United States, 11 Mexicans, 11 Ecuador, 1 Paraguyan and 1 Brazilian. The U. S. contingent is headed by U. S. air force Col. Willie Lewis of Washington, D. C. and Benton, Ill.

Air observation is carried out largely by U. S. Navy Martin Marlin bombers, assisted by one plane from Ecuador and two which arrived yesterday from Mexico. Uruguay also is sending a plane.

U.S. Thinks Army, Navy Men Slaves

Americans May Be In Soviet Camps

Berlin, Jan. 21 (AP)—U. S. officials speculated today that perhaps a score of American soldiers and navy fliers still may be trapped in Soviet slave labor camps.

The army disclosed that 12 American soldiers have been missing from Berlin for a considerable length of time, one for more than five years. The army said it has no information on their whereabouts, but officials added that some or all may be in the Kremlin's Arctic camps, lost in a maelstrom of hundreds of thousands of men and women of all nationalities.

EIGHT AIRMEN from a navy privateer shot down in the Baltic in 1950 also may be in one of the Soviets' Arctic camps. John H. Noble of Detroit, who was released two weeks ago after nine years in captivity, said he had heard eight men of the crew of 10 had been rescued by the Soviets and were being held.

The return yesterday of Pvt. William A. Verdine of Starks, La., from six years of captivity cleared up only those three

Committee Confers With Prison Rebels

Boston, Jan. 21 (AP)—A seven man committee, including two editors, prison officials and the president of the Boston Bar Association, conferred early today with the four rebel convicts at Massachusetts State Prison, in efforts to end a four-day stalemate.

One committee member said the group had met with the rebellious quartet in efforts to obtain release of five hostage guards and six other inmates held in a cell block at the old prison since early Tuesday.

The committee plans another meeting at the prison today.

Its members are:

Sumner H. Babcock, president of the Boston Bar Assn.; the Rev. John J. Grant, associate editor of The Pilot, Boston's Catholic archdiocesan paper; Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor; the Rev. Edward Hartigan, Catholic chaplain at the prison; the Rev. Howard Kellett, Protestant chaplain; Dr. Samuel Merlin, prison physician, and Patrick J. McDonough, a member of the executive (or governor's) council.

Canham said the "situation is so delicate the committee members agreed not to talk until they can tell everything."

Earlier four grim prison officials went into the prison from the warden's office for a two-hour stay but declined to give any details of the trip.

The quartet, escorted by an armed guard, emerged from the prison and entered the warden's office, ignoring reporters' questions except to say "No comment."

They had to pass more than 50 newsmen, photographers, and radio and television men. The jam around the four was so bad that one newsman was knocked to the floor and several were jostled.

The four who made the surprise trip into the prison are Warden John J. O'Brien, State Commissioner of Correction E. Lawrence Spurr, state police head Otis M. Whitney and state police Capt. John Mitchell.

The before-dawn burst of activity at the prison resulted in numerous reports, including the erroneous report that a National Guard tank was moved from its spot outside the wall to a position inside the wall.

Reds Menace Tachen Islands

Taipeh, Formosa, Jan. 21 (AP)—Communist China held undisputed possession of tiny Yikiangshan island today and its battle-tested amphibious striking power menaced the nearby strategic Tachen Islands 200 miles north of Formosa.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry said today the 720 Nationalist guerrillas on Yikiangshan had been wiped out to the last man.

RESISTANCE CRASHED on the island, the ministry said, at 9:12 p. m. last night, 61 hours 12 minutes after Chinese Red invaders landed behind pulverizing naval and air bombardment.

"Our brave guerrillas accomplished their anti-Communist, resist Russia and territory protection duty and all of them died gloriously in action," the ministry said. "Such valor has gained respect and admiration the world over."

(Peiping Radio, however, insisted that all fighting had ended Tuesday, the same day its amphibious invaders struck in overwhelming force.

(THE BROADCAST, heard in Tokyo, said the Communists had killed about 500 Nationalist troops, captured more than 550 and seized stores of guns and ammunition.

(Another Peiping broadcast hailed the "liberation" of Yikiangshan as a victory which has "inspired the nation in its struggles to liberate Taiwan (Formosa)."

(The bristling broadcast,

President Puts Blame on Two

Guatemala, Jan. 21 (AP)—The government pushed a roundup of Communists and supporters of ex-President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman today after beating down an uprising aimed at unseating anti-Red President Carlos Castillo Armas. At least 100 persons already were under arrest.

Government troops held Guatemala City and other strategic centers in an armed grip. Castillo Armas announced that 10 persons were killed and an undetermined number wounded in a brief clash yesterday between loyal forces and rebels seeking to capture Aurora Air Force Base, outside the capital. He blamed the Communists and Arbenz' supporters for the revolt.

THE ANTI-RED GOVERNMENT—in office less than seven months — promptly declared a state of siege, a kind of modified martial law. But authorities announced they were in control of the situation throughout the country.

Machinegun-carrying soldiers mounted tight guard on military posts and strategic points. A curfew went into effect in the capital, with no unauthorized person allowed on the streets after 10 p. m.

Press censorship was ordered under the state of siege but so far no checks were placed on foreign correspondents' dispatches.

THE OUTBREAK was the most serious attempt thus far to unseat the anti-Communist president who gained power last June when he led a revolt that drove out Arbenz' Red-supported government. The ousted President recently went from his exile residence in Mexico to Switzerland, where he was granted Swiss citizenship because his father had been born in that country.

Castillo Armas charged that one of the leaders of the uprising was Francisco Cosenza, Arbenz' ambassador to Italy and reportedly a friend of the ex-President. Cosenza returned to Guatemala recently and was jailed briefly but released.

The government did not indicate whether he had been picked up again.

THE PRESIDENT told a news conference that others implicated included civilians and disgruntled military men. No high officers in his government were involved, he added, but some demoted military men who held

New Jersey Pair Is Found Dead

A metropolitan area radio engineer, 59, and the 37-year-old wife of a steamship corporation executive ended their lives in an apparent suicide pact in a wooded lane off the Glenerie Lake road near Route 9W north of Kingston.

Suicide verdicts were issued today by Coroner Francis J. McCardle in the deaths of Reuben Royal Leadbeater, of 272 Tom Hunter road, Fort Lee, N. J., a radio engineer employed the past 27 years by New York University, and Rigmor Johanne Lindquist, 37, housewife, of 516 East Palisades avenue, Englewood, N. J.

THEIR BODIES had been discovered in the back seat of Leadbeater's 1950 car soon after noon Thursday.

Both were partly covered by a blanket, state police reported, and they died of asphyxiation due to inhaling the fumes of a small tank of liquid menthyl chloride gas, Coroner McCardle said.

Sgt. Arthur A. Reilly of the state police bureau of criminal investigation said the pair apparently parked in the lane Wednesday night, since various persons remembered seeing the automobile, but had not investigated closely until the following noon.

TRACING THE LICENSE number of the automobile, authorities established tentative identities of the man and woman in the early afternoon, and last night family members came to Kingston to complete the identification.

Both were married, Coroner McCardle said. Leadbeater is survived by his wife and a son, Robert Louis Leadbeater, recently discharged from the army and living with his parents at the Fort Lee address.

MRS. LINDQUIST is survived by her husband, Harry Lindquist, an executive of the Norwegian Steamship Corporation, and they have a son, 7, the coroner said.

Sgt. Reilly, who investigated with Trooper M. J. Valliant of the Kingston state police station, said Englewood police had

Wicks in making the announcement predicted "phenomenal growth" in the near future for this area due to the opening of the state thruway, the influx of new industry sparked by the coming IBM and the completion of the new bridge across the Hudson river between Kingston and Rhinecliff.

"Our hotel will contribute to community benefits and prosper itself in turn," the senator said.

Wicks reported 1954 a successful year financially and pointed out improvements made, the

Private Building Is Less Costly, Realty Head Says

Private enterprise has built more houses more cheaply than government sponsored public housing, Ralph R. Borchard, president of the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards, said in a talk here Thursday night.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Ulster County Real Estate Board at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Borchard contended the actual cost of public housing was $38,000 per unit, and that this cost is charged against taxpayers. He stressed the importance of free property ownership and how legislative committees for the state and national associations "keep their eyes" on legislative bills unfavorable to property ownership.

NEW OFFICERS of the Ulster county board were installed by the state president, who outlined the advantages of belonging to a real estate board and reviewed the history of the state and national associations from their beginning 45 years ago.

The new Ulster county president, Benson Krom, praised the outgoing president, Lawrence J. MacAvery, for his work as head of the board for the past three years.

AMONG THE objectives for the coming year as outlined by Krom is an extensive advertising campaign to stress the importance of doing business with realtors and the advantages of belonging to the association.

MacAvery, who is regional vice president of the State Association, announced that the Lower Hudson Valley Regional Conference on April 20 will be held in Kingston.

GUESTS ATTENDING the dinner meeting included Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; Mayor Frederick H. Stang; Manley Behrens, chairman of the state association's legislative committee; Charles Boos, state association treasurer; John Fisher, state executive secretary; also several Dutchess county brokers.

In a brief address, Mayor Stang revealed that the city is considering a program of reassessment to make taxes more equitable, and asked help and cooperation from the board.

George Moore was toastmaster.

Bill Is Approved

Rome, Jan. 21 (AP)—An Italian Senate commission unanimously approved today a bill which would close Italy's houses of prostitution. The commission's action reopened a long fight that Sen. Woodstock Tavern Closed by Order; O'Brien Arrested

The Brass Rail tavern in Woodstock was closed by a sheriff's levy Thursday afternoon and its operator, Edward O'Brien, 52, was arrested on a first degree grand larceny charge.

The levy, which included some of the furnishings and equipment and the liquor stock in the tavern operated by O'Brien on a lease, resulted from execution of two judgements against O'Brien, one in Supreme Court in Ulster county and the other in Supreme Court in Albany county. The building itself and part of the equipment, not owned by O'Brien, are not included in the levy.

The grand larceny charge placed against O'Brien was denied by him, and a preliminary hearing was scheduled before Justice of the Peace Joseph Forno this afternoon. O'Brien was released on his own recognizance for appearance at the hearing.

The arrest was made on a warrant obtained from Justice Forno charging O'Brien with obtaining a sum of money by "false pretences", according to County Investigator Arthur H. Brown, who executed the warrant. With Brown on the case was Assistant Investigator William Churchill, also of the sheriff's office.

The organization in Kingston has proved itself "worthy of the continued interest, recognition and generous support of our community."

Study Indicates Manner Polio Virus Can Operate

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—When one person in a family gets polio, nearly everyone else in that family has the same virus infection with no sickness, a new study indicates.

And that is a good thing for them. It means they get immunity—apparently permanently—against that type of polio virus.

They could still be susceptible to other types of polio virus. There are three known types of virus which can cause paralytic polio in humans.

THIS FINDING was described today to a polio conference, sponsored by the New York Academy of Sciences, by scientists of Tulane University, New Orleans. They are Drs. John P. Fox, Henry M. Gelfand, Pravin N. Bhatt, Dorothy Leblanc and Donald P. Conwell.

They made blood and other tests of families in which one member came down with diagnosed polio. (Of those who do get diagnosed polio, half recover completely, another 30 per cent are left with only minor handicaps. All become immune to the type of virus which attacked them.)

In 26 of 31 households studied, the Tulane team found that when one person had polio, "nearly every other previously non-immune household associate also was infected." This was shown by finding protective antibodies in their blood against that virus type.

Polio even invades babies withous causing any obvious illness, they also found.

THEY STUDIED 150 newborn babies, beginning in 1953, in familes from three different economic groups.

Sixty infants have since been found to have become immune to one or more types of virus, the early results show. This means they had been exposed to the virus, and developed antibodies without ever showing any signs of polio sickness.

Many of the babies had older brothers or sisters who, at the outset of the study, had no immunity as shown by blood tests.

But most of these older children also have become immune to the same virus types, with no signs of sickness. They had been exposed at the same time, and perhaps had passed the virus on to the infants.

These polio infections apparently began to occur in Louisiana families during May, 1954, and were most numerous in July and August. Infections have continued to occur up to the present time.

Few babies got the virus before age 9 months. The apparent reason is that newborn babies inherit antibodies which their mothers already had in their own blood. These inherited antibodies begin to disappear at about age 6 months, and the babies then are susceptible to polio infections.

Another Theft Is Reported

Another local burglary was reported here last night and local police today were checking with authorities elsewhere to determine whether arrested burglary suspects had any part in a series of local thefts within the past several weeks.

Two saxophones, valued at $100 each, were reported taken from Temple Emanuel, 50 Abeel street, after someone broke into the building.

BERNHARDT S. KRAMER, city clerk, reported the theft to police headquarters at 9:26 p. m., last night and Officers John Frasch and Benjamin Osterhoudt investigated.

Entrance was gained through a rear door and the person or persons who entered the building went upstairs, pried open a closet, and took the saxophones, the report said.

STATE POLICE and sheriffs' men arrested a 33-year-old man this week at Poughkeepsie on a burglary charge, claiming that he confessed to 18 thefts, and others, who were believed active in this region, were picked up recently at Norwalk, Conn.

Local police were informed that the men picked up in Connecticut admitted thefts in the Hudson valley, but nothing definite in Kingston or Ulster county. They said, however, that they had entered places in communities that were not known to them. Authorities said, the list of thefts to which they confessed included "safe jobs."

Pool May Go Into Effect

Albany, Jan. 21 (AP)—A super pool, designed to fatten the pay checks of dairymen supplying the New York metropolitan market, will go into effect Feb. 1 if milk dealers approve. The plan will not go into effect unless there is a 100 per cent sign-up by handlers and brokers buying milk from farmers serving the metropolitan area.

Private Building Is Less Costly, Realty Head Says

Private enterprise has built more houses more cheaply than government sponsored public housing, Ralph R. Borchard, president of the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards, said in a talk here Thursday night.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Ulster County Real Estate Board at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Borchard contended the actual cost of public housing was $38,000 per unit, and that this cost is charged against taxpayers. He stressed the importance of free property ownership and how legislative committees for the state and national associations "keep their eyes" on legislative bills unfavorable to property ownership.

NEW OFFICERS of the Ulster county board were installed by the state president, who outlined the advantages of belonging to a real estate board and reviewed the history of the state and national associations from their beginning 45 years ago.

The new Ulster county president, Benson Krom, praised the outgoing president, Lawrence J. MacAvery, for his work as head of the board for the past three years.

AMONG THE objectives for the coming year as outlined by Krom is an extensive advertising campaign to stress the importance of doing business with realtors and the advantages of belonging to the association.

MacAvery, who is regional vice president of the State Association, announced that the Lower Hudson Valley Regional Conference on April 20 will be held in Kingston.

GUESTS ATTENDING the dinner meeting included Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; Mayor Frederick H. Stang; Manley Behrens, chairman of the state association's legislative committee; Charles Boos, state association treasurer; John Fisher, state executive secretary; also several Dutchess county brokers.

In a brief address, Mayor Stang revealed that the city is considering a program of reassessment to make taxes more equitable, and asked help and cooperation from the board.

George Moore was toastmaster.

Bill Is Approved

Rome, Jan. 21 (AP)—An Italian Senate commission unanimously approved today a bill which would close Italy's houses of prostitution. The commission's action reopened a long fight that Sen. Angelina Merlin, 65, Socialist, has waged against legalized prostitution in Italy. The Senate approved her bill in 1952, but then the law encountered delay in the Chamber of Deputies, and died with dissolution of the Italian Parliament prior to the national elections in 1953.

Woodstock Tavern Closed by Order; O'Brien Arrested

The Brass Rail tavern in Woodstock was closed by a sheriff's levy Thursday afternoon and its operator, Edward O'Brien, 52, was arrested on a first degree grand larceny charge.

The levy, which included some of the furnishings and equipment and the liquor stock in the tavern operated by O'Brien on a lease, resulted from execution of two judgements against O'Brien, one in Supreme Court in Ulster county and the other in Supreme Court in Albany county. The building itself and part of the equipment, not owned by O'Brien, are not included in the levy.

The grand larceny charge placed against O'Brien was denied by him, and a preliminary hearing was scheduled before Justice of the Peace Joseph Forno this afternoon. O'Brien was released on his own recognizance for appearance at the hearing.

The arrest was made on a warrant obtained from Justice Forno charging O'Brien with obtaining a sum of money by "false pretences", according to County Investigator Arthur H. Brown, who executed the warrant. With Brown on the case was Assistant Investigator William Churchill, also of the sheriff's office.

Through its varied youth program," he said, it has been "a strong force in implementing the spirit of true brotherhood, tolerance and understanding throughout the community."

The organization in Kingston has proved itself "worthy of the continued interest, recognition and generous support of our community."

Alarm Is Sounded

An alarm was sounded from Box 2121, East Union and Chambers street, for what was first thought to be a chimney fire, at 6:07 p. m., Thursday. Men and equipment from Cornell and Central stations and Union and Rapid Hose companies responded, and firemen found that the cause of the alarm was sparks coming from a chimney at 39 East Union street due to the burning of wood in a kitchen range in the apartment of LeRoy Williams.

Study Indicates Manner Polio Virus Can Operate

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—When one person in a family gets polio, nearly everyone else in that family has the same virus infection with no sickness, a new study indicates.

And that is a good thing for them. It means they get immunity—apparently permanently—against that type of polio virus.

They could still be susceptible to other types of polio virus. There are three known types of virus which can cause paralytic polio in humans.

THIS FINDING was described today to a polio conference, sponsored by the New York Academy of Sciences, by scientists of Tulane University, New Orleans. They are Drs. John P. Fox, Henry M. Gelfand, Pravin N. Bhatt, Dorothy Leblanc and Donald P. Conwell.

They made blood and other tests of families in which one member came down with diagnosed polio. (Of those who do get diagnosed polio, half recover completely, another 30 per cent are left with only minor handicaps. All become immune to the type of virus which attacked them.)

In 26 of 31 households studied, the Tulane team found that when one person had polio, "nearly every other previously non-immune household associate also was infected." This was shown by finding protective antibodies in their blood against that virus type.

Polio even invades babies withous causing any obvious illness, they also found.

THEY STUDIED 150 newborn babies, beginning in 1953, in familes from three different economic groups.

Sixty infants have since been found to have become immune to one or more types of virus, the early results show. This means they had been exposed to the virus, and developed antibodies without ever showing any signs of polio sickness.

Many of the babies had older brothers or sisters who, at the outset of the study, had no immunity as shown by blood tests.

But most of these older children also have become immune to the same virus types, with no signs of sickness. They had been exposed at the same time, and perhaps had passed the virus on to the infants.

These polio infections apparently began to occur in Louisiana families during May, 1954, and were most numerous in July and August. Infections have continued to occur up to the present time.

Few babies got the virus before age 9 months. The apparent reason is that newborn babies inherit antibodies which their mothers already had in their own blood. These inherited antibodies begin to disappear at about age 6 months, and the babies then are susceptible to polio infections.

Another Theft Is Reported

Another local burglary was reported here last night and local police today were checking with authorities elsewhere to determine whether arrested burglary suspects had any part in a series of local thefts within the past several weeks.

Two saxophones, valued at $100 each, were reported taken from Temple Emanuel, 50 Abeel street, after someone broke into the building.

BERNHARDT S. KRAMER, city clerk, reported the theft to police headquarters at 9:26 p. m., last night and Officers John Frasch and Benjamin Osterhoudt investigated.

Entrance was gained through a rear door and the person or persons who entered the building went upstairs, pried open a closet, and took the saxophones, the report said.

STATE POLICE and sheriffs' men arrested a 33-year-old man this week at Poughkeepsie on a burglary charge, claiming that he confessed to 18 thefts, and others, who were believed active in this region, were picked up recently at Norwalk, Conn.

Local police were informed that the men picked up in Connecticut admitted thefts in the Hudson valley, but nothing definite in Kingston or Ulster county. They said, however, that they had entered places in communities that were not known to them. Authorities said, the list of thefts to which they confessed included "safe jobs."

Pool May Go Into Effect

Albany, Jan. 21 (AP)—A super pool, designed to fatten the pay checks of dairymen supplying the New York metropolitan market, will go into effect Feb. 1 if milk dealers approve. Agriculture Commissioner Daniel J. Carey yesterday signed an agreement reached by committees representing producers and dealers, and Carey's office mailed out to dealers 1,200 copies of proposed contracts. The plan will not go into effect unless there is a 100 per cent sign-up by handlers and brokers buying milk from farmers serving the metropolitan area.

Slover Resigns, Police Force Is Down to 45 Men

Resignation of another patrolman announced at yesterday's police board meeting reduces the force from a former full strength of 50 to 45 and leaves the department eight men below the requested personnel of 53 to cope with the 40-hour work week schedule.

WILLIAM A. SLOVER, of 37 Lafayette avenue, who has been on the force since June 22, 1953, announced his resignation effective as of Saturday, Jan. 22. He is to accept a position with the Miron Building Products Co., Inc., 60 Ferry street.

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren, in his annual report, published in today's Freeman, noted that the department now has a force of 48, and that two vacancies occurred in 1954.

Patrolman Elbert L. Soper retired last April 1, Kenneth Gaffney resigned on Sept. 3. Officer Earl Schoonmaker is on a leave of absence for six months.

THE DEPARTMENT cannot be brought to full strength until sometime in the Spring or later because the Municipal Civil Service Commission now has an eligibility list bearing only one name. He was the only successful candidate out of seven who took the last examination for patrolmen.

The next examination is not until April and it will be some time after that before a new list is established. The state now schedules such examinations only in April and September each year. The local commission has applied to be included in the April test.

THE CHIEF also noted in his report that two patrolmen have been acting as sergeants without pay increases for more than a year and he recommended the appointment of two sergeants from the civil service list.

The board voted to turn in only one of the five patrol cars for a new one this year and to replace one of the three motorcycles. The motorcycle to be turned in was damaged in a mishap during last year.

Chief VanBuren had recommended two new cars in his annual report, but it was decided, he said, that the car used by the detectives could give another year of service after reconditioning.

Baptists Favor Ban on Bingo; Elect Officers

A firm resolution calling for definite action against any plan for the liberalization of the bingo law was unanimously adopted during the annual meeting of the First Baptist Church in the church parlors Thursday night.

Offered in resolution form by the Rev. Donald E. Brown, pastor, it cited the perils of gambling and added that passage of a bingo law would open the way for organized crime.

Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to State Senator Arthur H. Wicks and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson.

NEW OFFICERS were elected during last night's business session presided over by Charles L. Arnold, moderator and Edward Safford, church clerk.

Prior to the election, the Rev. Mr. Brown, in his annual message to the church membership, forecast a rosy picture for the year of 1955, due largely to the coming of the IBM plant to Kingston, which he said, "is in the form of a challenge to all church workers. More Christians will be coming into our midst for the first time in many years and to welcome them, not only in our church, but in all churches of the city, stands as a distinct challenge."

The following officers were unanimously elected following a nominating committee report given by Raymond L. Whitbeck.

Deacons, elected for three years—the Rev. Justin D. Field, Evan J. Davis and Erwin Craw. Deaconesses, for three years — Mrs. Benjamin Dixon, Mrs. Ira Woolsey and Mrs. Henry Winchell.

Edward Safford, church clerk; Charles L. Arnold, moderator; Irwin J. Thomas, financial secretary; Mrs. Nellie Klothe, treasurer of benevolences; Miss Ethel M. Hull, church school superintendent; George B. Matthews, church representative to Rip Van Winkle Boy Scout Council and the following trustees, elected for a three-year term: James H. Betts, Arthur E. Jones and Albert O. Sonnenberg.

Thrift Talk Deals With Security Of Individuals

True security cannot be obtained through government regulation and handout, it was stressed by Edward L. Stamm of New York in a Thrift Week address to members of the Kiwanis Club meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday.

Stamm, director of promotional activities for the Savings Banks Association of the State of New York, called attention to remarks of Senator Bennett of Utah, who said that "any man who surrenders his basic personal responsibilities to another man or government, has no security."

THE THRIFT WEEK speaker added: "I shall never accept any philosophy, any ism, any way of life, as a substitute for self-imposed economic discipline. Let us all have the courage to fight against these strange philosophies whenever they rear their ugly heads. This we can do by everlasting vigilance, by programs of sound financial education and, above all, by the example of our own lives."

Stamm urged education in economics and the "good old fashioned virtue of thrift" as necessary to preserve the American heritage against "strange philosophies" such as those taught by communism.

The speaker, a native of New York, began his business career with Manufacturers Trust Company in 1931, and served as secretary to the president until 1945. From then until 1952 he was assistant advertising manager. He came to the Savings Banks Association in March, 1953, and was placed in charge of promotional activities such as speakers' bureau, motion picture program and thrift education. He was introduced by Harry S. Ensign, treasurer of the Kingston Savings Bank and a past president of the Kiwanis Club.

Railroad Club Host to Cub Scouts

Cub Scouts and leaders from various sections of Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, were the guests of the Kingston Model Railroad Club, 541 Broadway, this month as the local club joined other agencies in the promotion of the Cub Scout theme of the month, "Railroading."

The local model engineers presented an exhibition to the Cub Scouts, showing the way a prototype railroad runs—only the railroad featured was the quarter-inch scale model Hudson Valley Lines of the club. Following operations of the miniature railroad, a question and answer period was held for further informing the Cub Scouts concerning various railroad practices.

The presentation by the rail road club was held on two Thursday evenings, and both sessions saw the club quarters jammed to capacity with boys in the blue and gold uniforms of the Cubs, together with their adult leaders and parents.

Cub Packs entertained by the Kingston Model Railroad Club during the two sessions were Pack 5, Jewish Community Center, Pack 7, St. John's Church, Pack 12, Old Dutch Church, Pack 15, Church of The Comforter, Pack 19, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Pack 32, Lutheran Church of Saugerties, Pack 36, St. Mary's Church of Saugerties, and Pack 38, Reformed Church of Saugerties.

President Warns Speculators Administration Will Act

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower has put stock traders on notice today not to try any runaway speculation.

In what some regard as a warning to "the public" which has been drawn into the stock market by the lure of fast rising prices, he says his administration would take measures to halt excess speculation if it started.

The President, however, gives stock traders a paternal pat for reflecting confidence in our economic future by their active bidding up of stocks in recent months.

THE RECENT INCREASE of stock margin requirements by the Federal Reserve Board, the President says in his economic message to Congress, shows that the government "is mindful of its great responsibility" to prevent a financial boom-and-bust.

Tighter money and rising interest rates had Wall Street guessing, even before the President tipped his hand.

Stock traders, bankers and businessmen wonder if the first short steps away from real easy money signal the start of a trend toward definitely harder money. They remember that a move early in 1953 to make money dearer helped put a brake on inflation.

MONEY MANAGERS in Washington deny they are trying to tighten the scores on credit. But they show they could move fast to nip a speculative flurry before it could develop into a boom this year, to be followed by a bust next year. The fact that next year is an election year may or may not have anything to do with the case.

The Federal Reserve Board took the first steps last fall when, acting on the marked business pick up, it stopped shovelling more money into the economy. It thus ended its policy of "active ease." As increased business brought more demand for credit, money got a little tighter. And in recent days the cost of borrowing has started to rise.

THE U. S. TREASURY is paying the highest price since December 1953 for the money it borrows each week through its discount bills. Business men who sell their notes to commercial paper dealers have found the interest they must pay going up twice of late.

The finance companies who sell their notes to bankers and investors are paying more interest this week than last. It is the first time in 19 months their borrowing costs have gone up. In fact, since September 1953 the cost had gone down 10 times.

BANKERS, supporting the Federal Reserve Board's new policy of letting supply and demand take care of the money market at time, say that actually bank credit is still readily available at relative cheap costs.

The upturn in most business has justified the ending of the board's policy of actively easing credit, the bankers say. And the business gains so far give no sign of picking up enough speed to threaten a new period of inflation.

The warning that Washington will step hard on any speculative splurge in the stock market is believed in Wall Street to imply no rebuke to the bulls for carrying prices to their present levels—just a warning not to overdo it.

The ranks of the bears, meantime, continue to shrink. The number of shares sold short in anticipation of lower prices is lower now than at any time since last June.

And public interest in the market continues high, with the number of issues involved in each day's trading staying large as buyers shop through the entire list.

Slover Resigns, Police Force Is Down to 45 Men

Resignation of another patrolman announced at yesterday's police board meeting reduces the force from a former full strength of 50 to 45 and leaves the department eight men below the requested personnel of 53 to cope with the 40-hour work week schedule.

WILLIAM A. SLOVER, of 37 Lafayette avenue, who has been on the force since June 22, 1953, announced his resignation effective as of Saturday, Jan. 22. He is to accept a position with the Miron Building Products Co., Inc., 60 Ferry street.

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren, in his annual report, published in today's Freeman, noted that the department now has a force of 48, and that two vacancies occurred in 1954.

Patrolman Elbert L. Soper retired last April 1, Kenneth Gaffney resigned on Sept. 3. Officer Earl Schoonmaker is on a leave of absence for six months.

THE DEPARTMENT cannot be brought to full strength until sometime in the Spring or later because the Municipal Civil Service Commission now has an eligibility list bearing only one name. He was the only successful candidate out of seven who took the last examination for patrolmen.

The next examination is not until April and it will be some time after that before a new list is established. The state now schedules such examinations only in April and September each year. The local commission has applied to be included in the April test.

THE CHIEF also noted in his report that two patrolmen have been acting as sergeants without pay increases for more than a year and he recommended the appointment of two sergeants from the civil service list.

The board voted to turn in only one of the five patrol cars for a new one this year and to replace one of the three motorcycles. The motorcycle to be turned in was damaged in a mishap during last year.

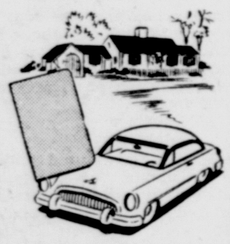

Chief VanBuren had recommended two new cars in his annual report, but it was decided, he said, that the car used by the detectives could give another year of service after reconditioning.

Baptists Favor Ban on Bingo; Elect Officers

A firm resolution calling for definite action against any plan for the liberalization of the bingo law was unanimously adopted during the annual meeting of the First Baptist Church in the church parlors Thursday night.

Offered in resolution form by the Rev. Donald E. Brown, pastor, it cited the perils of gambling and added that passage of a bingo law would open the way for organized crime.

Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to State Senator Arthur H. Wicks and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson.

NEW OFFICERS were elected during last night's business session presided over by Charles L. Arnold, moderator and Edward Safford, church clerk.

Prior to the election, the Rev. Mr. Brown, in his annual message to the church membership, forecast a rosy picture for the year of 1955, due largely to the coming of the IBM plant to Kingston, which he said, "is in the form of a challenge to all church workers. More Christians will be coming into our midst for the first time in many years and to welcome them, not only in our church, but in all churches of the city, stands as a distinct challenge."

The following officers were unanimously elected following a nominating committee report given by Raymond L. Whitbeck.

Deacons, elected for three years—the Rev. Justin D. Field, Evan J. Davis and Erwin Craw. Deaconesses, for three years — Mrs. Benjamin Dixon, Mrs. Ira Woolsey and Mrs. Henry Winchell.

Edward Safford, church clerk; Charles L. Arnold, moderator; Irwin J. Thomas, financial secretary; Mrs. Nellie Klothe, treasurer of benevolences; Miss Ethel M. Hull, church school superintendent; George B. Matthews, church representative to Rip Van Winkle Boy Scout Council and the following trustees, elected for a three-year term: James H. Betts, Arthur E. Jones and Albert O. Sonnenberg.

Thrift Talk Deals With Security Of Individuals

True security cannot be obtained through government regulation and handout, it was stressed by Edward L. Stamm of New York in a Thrift Week address to members of the Kiwanis Club meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday.

Stamm, director of promotional activities for the Savings Banks Association of the State of New York, called attention to remarks of Senator Bennett of Utah, who said that "any man who surrenders his basic personal responsibilities to another man or government, has no security."

THE THRIFT WEEK speaker added: "I shall never accept any philosophy, any ism, any way of life, as a substitute for self-imposed economic discipline. Let us all have the courage to fight against these strange philosophies whenever they rear their ugly heads. This we can do by everlasting vigilance, by programs of sound financial education and, above all, by the example of our own lives."

Stamm urged education in economics and the "good old fashioned virtue of thrift" as necessary to preserve the American heritage against "strange philosophies" such as those taught by communism.

The speaker, a native of New York, began his business career with Manufacturers Trust Company in 1931, and served as secretary to the president until 1945. From then until 1952 he was assistant advertising manager. He came to the Savings Banks Association in March, 1953, and was placed in charge of promotional activities such as speakers' bureau, motion picture program and thrift education. He was introduced by Harry S. Ensign, treasurer of the Kingston Savings Bank and a past president of the Kiwanis Club.

Railroad Club Host to Cub Scouts

Cub Scouts and leaders from various sections of Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, were the guests of the Kingston Model Railroad Club, 541 Broadway, this month as the local club joined other agencies in the promotion of the Cub Scout theme of the month, "Railroading."

The local model engineers presented an exhibition to the Cub Scouts, showing the way a prototype railroad runs—only the railroad featured was the quarter-inch scale model Hudson Valley Lines of the club. Following operations of the miniature railroad, a question and answer period was held for further informing the Cub Scouts concerning various railroad practices.

The presentation by the rail road club was held on two Thursday evenings, and both sessions saw the club quarters jammed to capacity with boys in the blue and gold uniforms of the Cubs, together with their adult leaders and parents.

Cub Packs entertained by the Kingston Model Railroad Club during the two sessions were Pack 5, Jewish Community Center, Pack 7, St. John's Church, Pack 12, Old Dutch Church, Pack 15, Church of The Comforter, Pack 19, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Pack 32, Lutheran Church of Saugerties, Pack 36, St. Mary's Church of Saugerties, and Pack 38, Reformed Church of Saugerties.

President Warns Speculators Administration Will Act

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—President Eisenhower has put stock traders on notice today not to try any runaway speculation.

In what some regard as a warning to "the public" which has been drawn into the stock market by the lure of fast rising prices, he says his administration would take measures to halt excess speculation if it started.

The President, however, gives stock traders a paternal pat for reflecting confidence in our economic future by their active bidding up of stocks in recent months.

THE RECENT INCREASE of stock margin requirements by the Federal Reserve Board, the President says in his economic message to Congress, shows that the government "is mindful of its great responsibility" to prevent a financial boom-and-bust.

Tighter money and rising interest rates had Wall Street guessing, even before the President tipped his hand.

Stock traders, bankers and businessmen wonder if the first short steps away from real easy money signal the start of a trend toward definitely harder money. They remember that a move early in 1953 to make money dearer helped put a brake on inflation.

MONEY MANAGERS in Washington deny they are trying to tighten the scores on credit. But they show they could move fast to nip a speculative flurry before it could develop into a boom this year, to be followed by a bust next year. The fact that next year is an election year may or may not have anything to do with the case.

The Federal Reserve Board took the first steps last fall when, acting on the marked business pick up, it stopped shovelling more money into the economy. It thus ended its policy of "active ease." As increased business brought more demand for credit, money got a little tighter. And in recent days the cost of borrowing has started to rise.

THE U. S. TREASURY is paying the highest price since December 1953 for the money it borrows each week through its discount bills. Business men who sell their notes to commercial paper dealers have found the interest they must pay going up twice of late.

The finance companies who sell their notes to bankers and investors are paying more interest this week than last. It is the first time in 19 months their borrowing costs have gone up. In fact, since September 1953 the cost had gone down 10 times.

BANKERS, supporting the Federal Reserve Board's new policy of letting supply and demand take care of the money market at time, say that actually bank credit is still readily available at relative cheap costs.

The upturn in most business has justified the ending of the board's policy of actively easing credit, the bankers say. And the business gains so far give no sign of picking up enough speed to threaten a new period of inflation.

The warning that Washington will step hard on any speculative splurge in the stock market is believed in Wall Street to imply no rebuke to the bulls for carrying prices to their present levels—just a warning not to overdo it.

The ranks of the bears, meantime, continue to shrink. The number of shares sold short in anticipation of lower prices is lower now than at any time since last June.

And public interest in the market continues high, with the number of issues involved in each day's trading staying large as buyers shop through the entire list.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 21, 1955

FRED J. EISLER

No native son ever thought more of his beloved Kingston than Fred J. Eisler, who came here 11 years ago, and started searching for a brighter future (1) for the city and (2) for himself.

And, he accomplished his goals, although the hand of death touched him before full realization, in one respect at least.

As managing director of the Hotel Stuyvesant, Mr. Eisler was a success as a business man. He worked early and late, put his heart in everything he did, and made many friends. His hotel patrons delighted conversing with him; their stay wasn't complete without a chat with Fred.

He had a way of looking to the future with the brightness of a morning sun, and had a knack of leading others to do the same. We must have faith, spirit, and a good word for our fellowmen was his motto. And, he lived by it.

Fred Eisler was kind, warmhearted and charitable, ever ready to stretch out a helping hand. Once when a taxidriver pulled up at his hotel with two refugees and their small crying infant, he accepted the stranded non-English speaking pair with open arms, gave them food and shelter, and, insisted on personally preparing the baby's 2 a. m. feeding.

It was always like that with Fred, and his friends were legion in all walks of life—business men, merchants, hotelmen, athletes in the various fields of sports and industrialists.

Heading the list in the latter category was the world-renowned Thomas J. Watson Sr., chairman of the board of IBM, who in a published letter credited Fred J. Eisler with starting the movement that brought one firm's plants to the Town of Ulster, a neighboring community.

Mr. Eisler rejoiced over this accomplishment, and he had every reason to, because the new industry is bound to change the whole economic trend hereabouts with prosperity for many and fuller opportunities for generations.

Too bad Mr. Eisler could not have seen the full bloom of fruits he planted by singing the praises of Kingston and its environs to his close friend Thomas Watson.

His memory shall live long in the hearts of other patriots who must carry on the traditions he fostered, and they can't help but be inspired by the legacies he left for his fellow-citizens in the way of encouragement to keep a bright outlook for the future.

SEASONS IN THE HEART

A man without memory and faith might believe that in Winter the world is drawing to an end. He might see the leafless trees as a sign that nature was dying; he might read in the short days and long dark nights a message of despair, might fear that the sun was losing its brightness and strength.

Yet, with memory, he remembers other Winters, followed by other Springs. He knows that in a few months buds will appear on the barren branches, the locked waters of the streams will be loosened by the thaw, the days will grow longer and the sun wax warm. With faith he knows that that which appears to be dying or dead is in reality but asleep, awaiting the awakening of spring. Thus faith and the ability to recall the past help him to endure days that might otherwise be discouraging and trying.

There are seasons in the hearts of men, too. When periods of trial come, when sorrow visits, when all ahead seems dark and hopeless, it is well to reflect on the green, light days of the past and know that in season sorrow will pass and the heart will be glad again.

THE GREAT OBSTACLE

Two centuries ago Benjamin Franklin uttered, as was his wont, wise words worth heeding:

"Those who govern, having much business on their hands, do not generally like to take the trouble of considering and carrying into execution new projects. The best public measures are therefore seldom adopted from previous wisdom, but forced by the occasion."

It is only too true that one of the greatest obstacles to improvement is not wickedness or lack of intelligence, but inertia.

The wiles of women have caused many male wails. Also, we must admit, they probably work the other way, too.

If a man could see himself as others see him he might look more kindly on the faults of others.

'These Days'

TEEN-AGERS

This is a fact: There have always been teen-agers and they have always presented problems to their parents. Sometimes we parents forget that we were once teen-agers and that we learned by crawling and toddling, and that we were surprised when we discovered our bodies and even more so when we found that curious instrument of personality, the mind.

I sometimes hear conversations among very bright teen-age girls on their families and the families of their friends and I discovered a secret: They do not like divorced parents because they think it unfair and unjust and as one girl put it, a lousy trick.

My ears pricked up because I knew that some of these young ladies had far more direct knowledge and experience with the subject than I ever could have. What, for instance, is the responsibility of a father who has brought three children into the world, enjoyed their company for years, played with them, and then dumps them just as they are maturing and need him most? Some of my young friends ask me that.

He, of course, has to live his own life and cannot possibly endure his wife another day. He will give her anything she wants, if she will only go to Reno or Chihauhau or Mexico City, and get a divorce, accusing him of mental cruelty but not mentioning his paramour whose adulteries he must carefully protect. I was once told by a young ladys that her father's passion for his fourth wife was wearing thin because she, the child, had discovered him in improprieties with a person whose name she mentioned. I wondered, at the time, whether she was confiding in me or whether she thought that I was a legman for Walter Winchell and hoped that I might give him a juicy item. I heard an intelligent young lady refer to her ex-father, as she put it, as a bum.

We blame the teen-agers for too much when we elders cause them such pain and set them such a horrible example. The more the child adores the father, the worse the moral shock when the father deserts the household. For it is not his wife whom he leaves but his children. The wife may, on the rebound, find a friend, as the expression is, but the children have lost their illusions. The great big, friendly fellow, who played with trains and brought dolls at Christmastime, has turned to be a creep.

And there is another thing I learn from many teen-agers: They hate to see their parents drunk. This is a double-edged evil because while the children abominate drunken parents, they do imitate them, and many fathers and mothers, I am sure, would be surprised to know how their children spike their so-called soft drinks. I heard of a young fellow who was selling "spikes" for a nickel a shot out of an eye-dropper.

Children in broken homes are of several kinds, but those I find most exciting are the little ones whose imaginations run riot over the intrigues, the adulteries, the recriminations among their proliferating parents. As the fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters, known and unrecognizable, multiply, they live through it all excited, stimulated, almost boastful. They somehow manage to know details which ordinarily are behind closed doors.

What all this does to their minds, I do not know, but I have come across some children who are masterful blackmailers, using parent against parent, to get what they want. They know that parent-love is not dead and they exploit what there is of it to satisfy their cravings. Some of them are undoubtedly double-agents, selling household secrets for some trifling advantage.

I have never encountered a single one of these children who is happy about the divorce. I have never met one who does not blame either the father or mother or both. I have met some who are especially cruel to the mother because they know that the mother will not give up her child no matter what the child does.

With divorce so prevalent in this country, it is necessary, I am sure, to think a little about the children who are romantically brought into the world only to be left to their own devices at the wrong age.

THE ALL-AROUND DIET

It would pay us well to take a good look at our average daily diet once in a while. We are creatures of habit and so often go along day after day eating the same amounts and kinds of food and because we do not feel "sick" are apt to think that our daily diet must be all right. As a matter of fact, we probably would be surprised to see what has been estimated as necessary food requirements for each day and compare this list with what we actually eat.

In Dr. Morris Fishbein's book, "The National Nutrition," we read that if every person's daily food consumption included the following, there should be no problems in nutrition:

"Milk and milk products—at least a pint for everyone—more for children—or cheese or evaporated or dried milk.

"Oranges, tomatoes, grapefruit—or raw cabbage or salad greens—at least one of these.

"Green or yellow vegetables—one big helping or more—some raw, some cooked.

"Other vegetables, fruit—potatoes, other vegetables in season.

"Bread and cereal, whole grain products or enriched white bread and flour.

"Meat, poultry or fish—and dried beans, peas or nuts occasionally.

"Eggs—at least 3 or 4 a week, cooked any way you choose—or in 'made' dishes.

"Butter and other spreads—vitamin-rich fats, peanut butter, and similar spreads."

Suggested daily diets may be as follows:

Breakfast: (for office or light factory work): fruit, oatmeal or other cereal with whole milk; toast, marmalade, coffee or tea. (For heavier physical work add sausage or bacon and eggs).

Lunch: (light work): Soup (preferably a cream soup), vegetable salad or bacon and 1 egg, muffins, pudding or fruit, beverage. (Heavy work) add potato and vegetable, fish or chicken.

Dinner: (light): Meat, salad, vegetable, dessert of any kind, beverage. (for heavy work add soup, another vegetable).

Naturally, everyone has their own likes and dislikes as far as food is concerned but we should make the effort to include the above food elemets outlined by Dr. Fishbein in every day's food intake. This will ensure the necessary vitamins and minerals essential to our sense of well-being.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA) — There has been a terrific ruckus in Washington the last few months over Republican efforts to get their political patronage machinery working better.

The storm began when a young White House assistant, Charles F. Willis, Jr., issued an order to all government agencies to start reporting and filling their job vacancies and making promotions through his office.

When government agencies report to Mr. Willis on job vacancies they have coming up, they are not to be filled for 30 days. This gives the GOP patronage machine a chance to spin its wheels and see if a Republican job hunter cannot be found to qualify.

This applies to the so-called "303" jobs for which there is no register of qualified Civil Service applicants. Most of these jobs are outside Washington. Formerly they were filled by local hiring. Now they must be cleared through Washington.

On the higher grade, presidential appointees, Mr. Willis tries to keep the Republican National Committee headquarters informed on vacancies coming up for six months ahead.

THIS GIVES CHAUNCEY ROBBINS, director of personnel and assistant to National Chairman Leonard Hall, a chance to notify the senators and representatives of vacancies in their states and districts. The congressmen can then notify their state GOP chairmen of vacancies. They may relay the news to county chairmen. By this daisy chain, Republican talent is supposed to be unearthed.

Mr. Robbins at GOP headquarters also maintains his own file of Republican applicants for jobs—any job. He says his files has about 3000 names in it all the time. Some 50 new applications come in every week.

Many of them are requests from congressmen or state and local political leaders. Some come from the applicants direct. About the same number of applicants drop out every week, because there are no vacancies. Many are requests for jobs that simply don't exist.

If a vacancy turns up, however, for say a lawyer with anti-trust experience, the Robbins personnel office will go through its cards. If it finds an applicant who seems to have the right qualifications, his file is sent to the hiring agency. But it's up to the agency in every case whether it hires the GOP regular, or takes someone else.

ALL GOVERNMENT LAWYERS ARE IN what is known as Civil Service Schedule A. Such employes can be hired without examination. The Republicans could have asked for the resignations of all lawyers who did not have Civil Service status when the GOP came to Washington in 1953, but it didn't.

How many may have been fired, GOP headquarters says it does not know. It was up to each agency to decide for itself. But those lawyers who now remain on the government payroll can hardly be got out of office with dynamite, says Mr. Robbins somewhat regretfully.

In Civil Service Schedule B are such government employes as U. S. deputy marshals. They can be appointed after passing a non-competitive examination. GOP headquarters assumes that only good Republicans have been appointed to such jobs. But it has kept no records up to now and doesn't know.

The really sad story from the Republican point of view relates to Schedule C. Here are the top policy-making jobs. There were 1052 of them in government at the last count. The Republicans feel they should have them all if the GOP is to run a responsible and loyal administration.

THESE SCHEDULE C JOBS also include confidential assistants to policy makers. That covers private secretaries, public relations advisers and even chauffeurs. But in this lower category of confidential assistant, the Republicans say they have made little inroad. All they have been able to grab off are some 250 to 300 policy-making jobs.

The Willis directive, which has been defended by President Eisenhower, is intended to change this situation. It has recently placed a number of lame-duck congressmen in important jobs. They were vacated in some cases by firing Civil Service employes, with long records under the Democrats.

This practice has been damned by government workers all over Washington as a threat to wreck the Civil Service and the merit promotion system. This is what will be investigated by Democratic congressional committees.

No Change in American Policy Is Forecast in Far East

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 21 — When President Eisenhower indicated that he would be glad to have the United Nations "exercise its good offices" so as to bring about a "cease fire" between the Communist government and the Nationalist government in China, there was opened up a field for discussion of a possible solution of the whole Far Eastern problem. Actually no change in American policy is in prospect.

On its face the "cease fire" plan could lead to UN jurisdiction and the recognition of two separate entities—the Nationalist and the Communist. This has sometimes been referred to as the "two China" formula. In Britain the idea is favored because of a belief that Formosa would then be accepted as a separate republic while Red China would come into the United Nations as the original China mentioned in the United Nations charter.

Such a scheme would necessitate an acceptance by Red China of the idea of losing Formosa, now regarded as an integral part of China. The Nationalists, too, have never given up hope of trying to go back and win the mainland.

All in all, it is, of course, in line with precedent for the President to suggest that "good offices" be used by the United Nations because any situation that endangers the peace of the world is logically within UN jurisdiction for investigation and for possible settlement.

But, while neither Red China nor the Nationalists would agree to any such proposal, it is likely that America will gain in the court of public opinion considerable credit for manifesting publicly a desire to end the fighting in a troublesome area. Up to now the Communist propaganda has endeavored to create the impression that the United States is anxious to instigate a war in the Far East. Mr. Eisenhower's announcement of his readiness to let the UN bring about a "cease fire" is proof of just the opposite.

Incidentally, the idea is something of a challenge to Chou En-lai, the Red Chinese foreign minister. At Geneva last spring he scorned the United Nations and refused to listen to any proposal whereby the United Nations machinery would be employed to settle the Korean unification problem. Will he now accept jurisdiction of the UN to solve what has hitherto been regarded by Red China as an "internal" problem? If he did, he would naturally have no further justification from his own viewpoint for prolonging the stalemate in Korea. Efforts even in recent weeks to persuade the Red Chinese to agree to a United Nations commission to supervise a settlement in Korea have been unavailing.

The Formosa dilemma, especially the fighting around the islands off the coast of China, does not involve only the support of the Nationalist Government of Chiang Kai-shek by the United States. This is a mistake which Europeans make in appraising American policy.

The truth is that, as long as American troops are in Korea and cannot be withdrawn, it is of the highest importance strategically to keep the Nationalist Army on Formosa in a strong position. This army poses a threat to the mainland and causes the Red China Government to maintain at least 1,000,000 soldiers nearby. If by any scheme Formosa were lost, all those troops now in that area would be free to move to North Korea and launch an attack on the South Korean army.

Thus, the U. S. strategy in the Far East is to maintain the present check against Communist agression as long as possible. Some of the islands near the coast of China are not important from a defense standpoint and probably will be evacuated by the Nationalists. But any attempt by Red China to attack Formosa will be met with force by the U. S. Seventh Fleet. The Commmunist Chinese do not have the amphibious equipment to land in Formosa or to hold the positions there so long as the American Navy, with its air power, encircles the island.

The President and Secretary Dulles have agreed on a line of policy which requires the defense of Formosa. But military men will have to decide as each contingency arises whether any other islands nearby will have to be defended in order to safeguard the approaches to the big island. The department of state, meanwhile, wants to see the mutual defense treaty with the National Government promptly ratified by the Senate. There is no justification for any belief that the administration's Far Eastern policy has undergone any change.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

If I had my life to live over and freedom to choose my own condition, I would elect to be a slave. If I could select my master I would pick dear old Barney Baruch, the Baron of Hobcaw Barony, down near Charleston, which has fine old slave-quarters and abundance of fowl in the fields and fish and oysters along the shore of the property. I am a little indefinite on Barney's personal history because in "Who's Who" he does not say where he was born. He does say he went to City College and Uncle Ed Hutton—the uncle of Barbara, that is—once told me he and Barney were schoolmates in public primary school near Fifth avenue in the 'forties. Ed neatly turned the climax of the memoir by recalling their meeting as witnesses before a committee of the Senate which was investigating a White House news leak during World War 1 which gave Wall Street a jiggle like an earthquake. Baruch said he just applied logic to a certain development, bet heavily on his hunch and cleaned up.

Notwithstanding this New York background, I somehow gathered long ago that BMB was born on the barony in South Carolina and that his people were southern gentry. Anyway, if I could be born into slavery, I would pick him for my master and Hobcaw for my plantation, although, probably, there were other plantations quite as charming and genteel in the antebellum days.

As a slave, I would not have to read, read, read all the time. Those who were slaves before the Civil War, being illiterate, can not have had the faintest idea of the strain and anxiety of a free man beset by books, papers and magazines, hurrying, hurrying to get things read so he can disagree with some female with an aggressive mind at a cocktail party.

I wouldn't have to lie awake until one, two, two-thirty, reading things, until my eyes smart and my wonderful brain aches. I I would not be invited to cocktail parties.

Come eight or half-past in the evening, I would drape the shape on the pallet in the little white cabin down the piney lane from the master's big house, and conk off until sun-up. I would have plenty of cornmeal and fritters and hog-side and eggs and milk and black-strap because, entirely aside from his great humanity, the old master would keep me sound of wind and limb so that I could plow and plant and chop and pick cotton and 'tend the stock so that he could come up with an honest profit. I would not want to be a houseboy nor even a yardboy, either. I would elect to be a fieldhand all the way, having no truck with the folks whatever at all. I would know my place and I would not attract attention by cutting up the Charleston and cracking dry, characteristic whimsies with artful naivete to get a pat on the head. Uh-uh. Not me, sir, boss. Keep you up all night making a quaint damn fool of yourself for guests from New York.

I would hope that the master would not let any of the slaves have radios to bother my mind with arguments and crazy, excited music. I would not want to be educated. I have observed a terrible march of education and I am telling you, friends, it has brought no comfort to the unfortunate parties who incurred it, most of us unwillingly, under pressure and the truancy system. If all people are equally educated, what is the advantage of that? Nobody is more learned than anyone else. All that trouble for nothing; all that sleep lost over books and all that anxiety about examinations. And then you get moderate wages in devaluated or inflated money and have to beat your brains out doing long-division, which is a device of the devil to prepare your tax return. As BMB's slave I would have no income. I would not even have a vote.

That would be swell. As a citizen, what are my rewards and satisfactions by comparison with the security, comfort and peace that I would enjoy in slavery?

Voting is nothing. I voted for FDR, the more fool I, proving the futility of general public education, when millions of educated fools voted for him in 1932. But our votes only endorsed a selection made by William Randolph Hearst on a mountain overlooking the Pacific, as my leader, Bill, Jr., frankly wrote during the Chicago conventions of 1952. In the next go-around, FDR nominated himself, as all the memoirs of the palace guard and other confidants have frankly admitted, and/or boasted. In 1940 he did it again and in 1944 still again. The people never pick presidents. They just pick between two individuals chosen by publishers, unions and secret societies in the east with enormous powers, all acting through private associations called parties.

Under slavery, I would never have a hangover. It would be a felony to sell me liquor and, anyway, I would have no money. I wouldn't have to worry about styles or how to tie the Windsor knot. Slaves wear just only plain, homely, adequate clothing, all provided by the master. Neckties are not part of the slave's wardrobe.

Lincoln said no nation could live half slave and half-free. He said only a few silly things but he certainly laid an egg there. Because right now I am more than half-slave as I can prove by my tax returns and I am taxed for the treasuries of many foreign nations in which I have no representation. How free are you?

Some slaveholders broke up family combinations to sell the husband or wife or child or children down the river, but that would be no great calamity on the whole to a people whose proportion of divorces to marriages is more than one in three and who venerate the Roosevelts nevertheless. Millions and millions of American kids have been parted from one or both parents by this process.

You may disagree with my conclusion but you will have to admit that I have got some pretty good points here.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 21, 1955

FRED J. EISLER

No native son ever thought more of his beloved Kingston than Fred J. Eisler, who came here 11 years ago, and started searching for a brighter future (1) for the city and (2) for himself.

And, he accomplished his goals, although the hand of death touched him before full realization, in one respect at least.

As managing director of the Hotel Stuyvesant, Mr. Eisler was a success as a business man. He worked early and late, put his heart in everything he did, and made many friends. His hotel patrons delighted conversing with him; their stay wasn't complete without a chat with Fred.

He had a way of looking to the future with the brightness of a morning sun, and had a knack of leading others to do the same. We must have faith, spirit, and a good word for our fellowmen was his motto. And, he lived by it.

Fred Eisler was kind, warmhearted and charitable, ever ready to stretch out a helping hand. Once when a taxidriver pulled up at his hotel with two refugees and their small crying infant, he accepted the stranded non-English speaking pair with open arms, gave them food and shelter, and, insisted on personally preparing the baby's 2 a. m. feeding.

It was always like that with Fred, and his friends were legion in all walks of life—business men, merchants, hotelmen, athletes in the various fields of sports and industrialists.

Heading the list in the latter category was the world-renowned Thomas J. Watson Sr., chairman of the board of IBM, who in a published letter credited Fred J. Eisler with starting the movement that brought one firm's plants to the Town of Ulster, a neighboring community.

Mr. Eisler rejoiced over this accomplishment, and he had every reason to, because the new industry is bound to change the whole economic trend hereabouts with prosperity for many and fuller opportunities for generations.

Too bad Mr. Eisler could not have seen the full bloom of fruits he planted by singing the praises of Kingston and its environs to his close friend Thomas Watson.

His memory shall live long in the hearts of other patriots who must carry on the traditions he fostered, and they can't help but be inspired by the legacies he left for his fellow-citizens in the way of encouragement to keep a bright outlook for the future.

SEASONS IN THE HEART

A man without memory and faith might believe that in Winter the world is drawing to an end. He might see the leafless trees as a sign that nature was dying; he might read in the short days and long dark nights a message of despair, might fear that the sun was losing its brightness and strength.

Yet, with memory, he remembers other Winters, followed by other Springs. He knows that in a few months buds will appear on the barren branches, the locked waters of the streams will be loosened by the thaw, the days will grow longer and the sun wax warm. With faith he knows that that which appears to be dying or dead is in reality but asleep, awaiting the awakening of spring. Thus faith and the ability to recall the past help him to endure days that might otherwise be discouraging and trying.

There are seasons in the hearts of men, too. When periods of trial come, when sorrow visits, when all ahead seems dark and hopeless, it is well to reflect on the green, light days of the past and know that in season sorrow will pass and the heart will be glad again.

THE GREAT OBSTACLE

Two centuries ago Benjamin Franklin uttered, as was his wont, wise words worth heeding:

"Those who govern, having much business on their hands, do not generally like to take the trouble of considering and carrying into execution new projects. The best public measures are therefore seldom adopted from previous wisdom, but forced by the occasion."

It is only too true that one of the greatest obstacles to improvement is not wickedness or lack of intelligence, but inertia.

The wiles of women have caused many male wails. Also, we must admit, they probably work the other way, too.

If a man could see himself as others see him he might look more kindly on the faults of others.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

TEEN-AGERS

This is a fact: There have always been teen-agers and they have always presented problems to their parents. Sometimes we parents forget that we were once teen-agers and that we learned by crawling and toddling, and that we were surprised when we discovered our bodies and even more so when we found that curious instrument of personality, the mind.

I sometimes hear conversations among very bright teen-age girls on their families and the families of their friends and I discovered a secret: They do not like divorced parents because they think it unfair and unjust and as one girl put it, a lousy trick.

My ears pricked up because I knew that some of these young ladies had far more direct knowledge and experience with the subject than I ever could have. What, for instance, is the responsibility of a father who has brought three children into the world, enjoyed their company for years, played with them, and then dumps them just as they are maturing and need him most? Some of my young friends ask me that.

He, of course, has to live his own life and cannot possibly endure his wife another day. He will give her anything she wants, if she will only go to Reno or Chihauhau or Mexico City, and get a divorce, accusing him of mental cruelty but not mentioning his paramour whose adulteries he must carefully protect. I was once told by a young ladys that her father's passion for his fourth wife was wearing thin because she, the child, had discovered him in improprieties with a person whose name she mentioned. I wondered, at the time, whether she was confiding in me or whether she thought that I was a legman for Walter Winchell and hoped that I might give him a juicy item. I heard an intelligent young lady refer to her ex-father, as she put it, as a bum.

We blame the teen-agers for too much when we elders cause them such pain and set them such a horrible example. The more the child adores the father, the worse the moral shock when the father deserts the household. For it is not his wife whom he leaves but his children. The wife may, on the rebound, find a friend, as the expression is, but the children have lost their illusions. The great big, friendly fellow, who played with trains and brought dolls at Christmastime, has turned to be a creep.

And there is another thing I learn from many teen-agers: They hate to see their parents drunk. This is a double-edged evil because while the children abominate drunken parents, they do imitate them, and many fathers and mothers, I am sure, would be surprised to know how their children spike their so-called soft drinks. I heard of a young fellow who was selling "spikes" for a nickel a shot out of an eye-dropper.

Children in broken homes are of several kinds, but those I find most exciting are the little ones whose imaginations run riot over the intrigues, the adulteries, the recriminations among their proliferating parents. As the fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters, known and unrecognizable, multiply, they live through it all excited, stimulated, almost boastful. They somehow manage to know details which ordinarily are behind closed doors.

What all this does to their minds, I do not know, but I have come across some children who are masterful blackmailers, using parent against parent, to get what they want. They know that parent-love is not dead and they exploit what there is of it to satisfy their cravings. Some of them are undoubtedly double-agents, selling household secrets for some trifling advantage.

I have never encountered a single one of these children who is happy about the divorce. I have never met one who does not blame either the father or mother or both. I have met some who are especially cruel to the mother because they know that the mother will not give up her child no matter what the child does.

With divorce so prevalent in this country, it is necessary, I am sure, to think a little about the children who are romantically brought into the world only to be left to their own devices at the wrong age.

That Body of Yours

THE ALL-AROUND DIET

It would pay us well to take a good look at our average daily diet once in a while. We are creatures of habit and so often go along day after day eating the same amounts and kinds of food and because we do not feel "sick" are apt to think that our daily diet must be all right. As a matter of fact, we probably would be surprised to see what has been estimated as necessary food requirements for each day and compare this list with what we actually eat.

In Dr. Morris Fishbein's book, "The National Nutrition," we read that if every person's daily food consumption included the following, there should be no problems in nutrition:

"Milk and milk products—at least a pint for everyone—more for children—or cheese or evaporated or dried milk.

"Oranges, tomatoes, grapefruit—or raw cabbage or salad greens—at least one of these.

"Green or yellow vegetables—one big helping or more—some raw, some cooked.

"Other vegetables, fruit—potatoes, other vegetables in season.

"Bread and cereal, whole grain products or enriched white bread and flour.

"Meat, poultry or fish—and dried beans, peas or nuts occasionally.

"Eggs—at least 3 or 4 a week, cooked any way you choose—or in 'made' dishes.

"Butter and other spreads—vitamin-rich fats, peanut butter, and similar spreads."

Suggested daily diets may be as follows:

Breakfast: (for office or light factory work): fruit, oatmeal or other cereal with whole milk; toast, marmalade, coffee or tea. (For heavier physical work add sausage or bacon and eggs).

Lunch: (light work): Soup (preferably a cream soup), vegetable salad or bacon and 1 egg, muffins, pudding or fruit, beverage. (Heavy work) add potato and vegetable, fish or chicken.

Dinner: (light): Meat, salad, vegetable, dessert of any kind, beverage. (for heavy work add soup, another vegetable).

Naturally, everyone has their own likes and dislikes as far as food is concerned but we should make the effort to include the above food elemets outlined by Dr. Fishbein in every day's food intake. This will ensure the necessary vitamins and minerals essential to our sense of well-being.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA) — There has been a terrific ruckus in Washington the last few months over Republican efforts to get their political patronage machinery working better.

The storm began when a young White House assistant, Charles F. Willis, Jr., issued an order to all government agencies to start reporting and filling their job vacancies and making promotions through his office.

When government agencies report to Mr. Willis on job vacancies they have coming up, they are not to be filled for 30 days. This gives the GOP patronage machine a chance to spin its wheels and see if a Republican job hunter cannot be found to qualify.

This applies to the so-called "303" jobs for which there is no register of qualified Civil Service applicants. Most of these jobs are outside Washington. Formerly they were filled by local hiring. Now they must be cleared through Washington.

On the higher grade, presidential appointees, Mr. Willis tries to keep the Republican National Committee headquarters informed on vacancies coming up for six months ahead.

THIS GIVES CHAUNCEY ROBBINS, director of personnel and assistant to National Chairman Leonard Hall, a chance to notify the senators and representatives of vacancies in their states and districts. The congressmen can then notify their state GOP chairmen of vacancies. They may relay the news to county chairmen. By this daisy chain, Republican talent is supposed to be unearthed.

Mr. Robbins at GOP headquarters also maintains his own file of Republican applicants for jobs—any job. He says his files has about 3000 names in it all the time. Some 50 new applications come in every week.

Many of them are requests from congressmen or state and local political leaders. Some come from the applicants direct. About the same number of applicants drop out every week, because there are no vacancies. Many are requests for jobs that simply don't exist.

If a vacancy turns up, however, for say a lawyer with anti-trust experience, the Robbins personnel office will go through its cards. If it finds an applicant who seems to have the right qualifications, his file is sent to the hiring agency. But it's up to the agency in every case whether it hires the GOP regular, or takes someone else.

ALL GOVERNMENT LAWYERS ARE IN what is known as Civil Service Schedule A. Such employes can be hired without examination. The Republicans could have asked for the resignations of all lawyers who did not have Civil Service status when the GOP came to Washington in 1953, but it didn't.

How many may have been fired, GOP headquarters says it does not know. It was up to each agency to decide for itself. But those lawyers who now remain on the government payroll can hardly be got out of office with dynamite, says Mr. Robbins somewhat regretfully.

In Civil Service Schedule B are such government employes as U. S. deputy marshals. They can be appointed after passing a non-competitive examination. GOP headquarters assumes that only good Republicans have been appointed to such jobs. But it has kept no records up to now and doesn't know.

The really sad story from the Republican point of view relates to Schedule C. Here are the top policy-making jobs. There were 1052 of them in government at the last count. The Republicans feel they should have them all if the GOP is to run a responsible and loyal administration.

THESE SCHEDULE C JOBS also include confidential assistants to policy makers. That covers private secretaries, public relations advisers and even chauffeurs. But in this lower category of confidential assistant, the Republicans say they have made little inroad. All they have been able to grab off are some 250 to 300 policy-making jobs.

The Willis directive, which has been defended by President Eisenhower, is intended to change this situation. It has recently placed a number of lame-duck congressmen in important jobs. They were vacated in some cases by firing Civil Service employes, with long records under the Democrats.

This practice has been damned by government workers all over Washington as a threat to wreck the Civil Service and the merit promotion system. This is what will be investigated by Democratic congressional committees.

No Change in American Policy Is Forecast in Far East

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 21 — When President Eisenhower indicated that he would be glad to have the United Nations "exercise its good offices" so as to bring about a "cease fire" between the Communist government and the Nationalist government in China, there was opened up a field for discussion of a possible solution of the whole Far Eastern problem. If he did, he would naturally have no further justification from his own viewpoint for prolonging the stalemate in Korea. Efforts even in recent weeks to persuade the Red Chinese to agree to a United Nations commission to supervise a settlement in Korea have been unavailing.

The Formosa dilemma, especially the fighting around the islands off the coast of China, does not involve only the support of the Nationalist Government of Chiang Kai-shek by the United States. This is a mistake which Europeans make in appraising American policy.

The truth is that, as long as American troops are in Korea and cannot be withdrawn, it is of the highest importance strategically to keep the Nationalist Army on Formosa in a strong position. This army poses a threat to the mainland and causes the Red China Government to maintain at least 1,000,000 soldiers nearby. If by any scheme Formosa were lost, all those troops now in that area would be free to move to North Korea and launch an attack on the South Korean army.

Thus, the U. S. strategy in the Far East is to maintain the present check against Communist agression as long as possible. Some of the islands near the coast of China are not important from a defense standpoint and probably will be evacuated by the Nationalists. But any attempt by Red China to attack Formosa will be met with force by the U. S. Seventh Fleet. The President and Secretary Dulles have agreed on a line of policy which requires the defense of Formosa. But military men will have to decide as each contingency arises whether any other islands nearby will have to be defended in order to safeguard the approaches to the big island. The department of state, meanwhile, wants to see the mutual defense treaty with the National Government promptly ratified by the Senate. There is no justification for any belief that the administration's Far Eastern policy has undergone any change.

Those who were slaves before the Civil War, being illiterate, can not have had the faintest idea of the strain and anxiety of a free man beset by books, papers and magazines, hurrying, hurrying to get things read so he can disagree with some female with an aggressive mind at a cocktail party.

I wouldn't have to lie awake until one, two, two-thirty, reading things, until my eyes smart and my wonderful brain aches. I would not be invited to cocktail parties.

Come eight or half-past in the evening, I would drape the shape on the pallet in the little white cabin down the piney lane from the master's big house, and conk off until sun-up. I would have plenty of cornmeal and fritters and hog-side and eggs and milk and black-strap because, entirely aside from his great humanity, the old master would keep me sound of wind and limb so that I could plow and plant and chop and pick cotton and 'tend the stock so that he could come up with an honest profit. I would not want to be a houseboy nor even a yardboy, either. I would elect to be a fieldhand all the way, having no truck with the folks whatever at all. I would know my place and I would not attract attention by cutting up the Charleston and cracking dry characteristic whimsies with artful naivete to get a pat on the head. Uh-uh. Not me, sir, boss. Keep you up all night making a quaint damn fool of yourself for guests from New York.

I would hope that the master would not let any of the slaves have radios to bother my mind with arguments and crazy, excited music. I would not want to be educated. I have observed a terrible march of education and I am telling you, friends, it has brought no comfort to the unfortunate parties who incurred it, most of us unwillingly, under pressure and the truancy system. If all people are equally educated, what is the advantage of that? Nobody is more learned than anyone else. All that trouble for nothing; all that sleep lost over books and all that anxiety about examinations. And then you get moderate wages in devaluated or inflated money and have to beat your brains out doing long-division, which is a device of the devil to prepare your tax return. As BMB's slave I would have no income. I would not even have a vote.

That would be swell. As a citizen, what are my rewards and satisfactions by comparison with the security, comfort and peace that I would enjoy in slavery?

Voting is nothing. I voted for FDR, the more fool I, proving the futility of general public education, when millions of educated fools voted for him in 1932. But our votes only endorsed a selection made by William Randolph Hearst on a mountain overlooking the Pacific, as my leader, Bill, Jr., frankly wrote during the Chicago conventions of 1952. In the next go-around, FDR nominated himself, as all the memoirs of the palace guard and other confidants have frankly admitted, and/or boasted. In 1940 he did it again and in 1944 still again. The people never pick presidents. They just pick between two individuals chosen by publishers, unions and secret societies in the east with enormous powers, all acting through private associations called parties.

Under slavery, I would never have a hangover. It would be a felony to sell me liquor and, anyway, I would have no money. I wouldn't have to worry about styles or how to tie the Windsor knot. Slaves wear just only plain, homely, adequate clothing, all provided by the master. Neckties are not part of the slave's wardrobe.

Lincoln said no nation could live half slave and half-free. He said only a few silly things but he certainly laid an egg there. Because right now I am more than half-slave as I can prove by my tax returns and I am taxed for the treasuries of many foreign nations in which I have no representation. How free are you?

Some slaveholders broke up family combinations to sell the husband or wife or child or children down the river, but that would be no great calamity on the whole to a people whose proportion of divorces to marriages is more than one in three and who venerate the Roosevelts nevertheless. Millions and millions of American kids have been parted from one or both parents by this process.

You may disagree with my conclusion but you will have to admit that I have got some pretty good points here.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., Jan. 20—Do you hope you will be able to send your children to college sometime between now and 1964? If you expect them to get a sound education, and you to get your money's worth, much must be done. Both teachers' salaries and their efficiency (which is now comparatively low) must be increased.

FIFTY YEARS AGO, only about 4% of the youth of college age were able to go to college. Two great events on our national scene boosted enrollments sharply—the depression and the GI Bill. Prewar, about 15% of our youth of college age attended such schools. Between 1945-49 a little better than 25% were enrolled. Then, the number shrank during 1950-52. Chiefly responsible for this drop was the fewer number of births in the 1930-35 depression.

But, 1952 saw a 1.5% increase in college enrollments over 1951; and 1953 rose 4.8% over 1952, so that again about 25% of our youth of eligible age were in college. 1954 fall enrollments probably registered at 6%-8% increase.

IF YOU PROJECT to 1970 the number of children already born, you will have a 16% increase in the youth of college age by 1960, a 46% increase by 1965, and a 70% increase by 1970. And if an increasing percentage of our youth of college age go on to college, enrollments could double by 1970.

The above is based on the assumption that we shall continue to make more educational opportunities available for our youth, as we always have. Educators claim that by 1970 a good third of our young people of college age may enroll. This would more than double student bodies, and perhaps require double the number of teachers and much more classroom space. Personally, I believe this is like forecasting 500 for the Industrial Stock Average. I question such figures.

THE TEACHER SHORTAGE will not be limited to colleges. Our elementary and secondary schools may need about 140,000 new teachers each year for the foreseeable future. Yet, it is estimated by the experts that only about half the number of teachers needed for the public schools alone will be graduated from college.

But, someone will have to teach your little Johnny and Susie. If adequately trained teachers are not available, persons with substandard qualifications will have to be pressed into service. Now, why is there a teacher shortage? The answer, in part, is that teachers are underpaid.

PUBLIC SCHOOL CLASSROOM teachers' salaries averaged about $3,600 for 1953-54. This is less than many business and engineering college graduates got as a starting salary on their first jobs a year or so ago. And 1953-54 was a good year for the teachers too, for it represented an average salary rise of 4.8 per cent over the previous year.

Still, 14.1 per cent of the 1,028,899 teachers received less than $2,500, and only 14 per cent received $4,500 or more. College teachers' salaries go very little higher. The median income of physicians, on the other hand, was about $11,200; lawyers, $7,750; dentists, $7,100; but with much higher top figures attainable. How can we hope to hold good men in top educational jobs which pay $5,000-$8,500 when their counterparts in industry offer ceilings unlimited?

IF WE WANT capable teachers, we shall have to pay wages competitive enough to encourage them to make the tremendous outlay of time and expense needed for their education. To hold our able teachers, we shall have to up salaries. This means higher taxes.

I forecast that our democratic society, with full employment, can prosper only as we provide adequate schooling for our youth, with a moderate tax rate. This means that our educational leaders must provide far more efficient methods of learning by doubling the use of present facilities. What industry could survive in this competitive era with its factories being used only six hours per day?

Lowell, Mich. (AP)—An animal's foot print excited so much interest in this western Michigan area that investigators made a plaster cast of it—then learned from the Grand Rapids Public Museum it was that of a mountain lion. Conservation men said it probably escaped from captivity somewhere.

Why We Say--

The expression "gat," for a gun, is derived from an inventor, R. J. Gatling, who made a cannon consisting of about ten barrels. The development of this gun began in 1861 and it became the standard machine gun for the Army for many years.

Painter Exhibits Work in Canal Zone

Woodstock, Jan. 20—Miss B. Sturtevant Gardner, who will return in June to her home on Mead road, this village, where she has spent the past 14 summers, is at present exhibiting her paintings in the Canal Zone.

According to an article in the Panama American dated Monday, Jan. 10, "Two exhibitions of paintings by B. Sturtevant Gardner are being shown simultaneously in the Canal Zone, one in the Civil Affairs Building and the other in the gallery of the JWB in Balboa. Combined they savor strongly of the past and the present in both subject matter and technique, with trends and adaptation of style to the subject.

"The Library-Museum exhibit is built around the Panama Canal and the Panama Railroad Views from both Canal banks, from Quarry Heights, the locks at night, the Big Cut, Madden Dam with the rushing overflow show studied work in oils extending over the years. The smooth fairly flat technique depicting the Spillway contrasts with the pointillisme used in the portrayal of searchlights sweeping the sky in quest of planes. The different approach shows a lapse of time as well as a molding of the technique to the material, smooth surfaces versus atmospheric luminosity.

"Nor is the human side omitted. A truckload of laborers of blending nationalities remind of the manpower that went into the Canal, still being necessary, colorful and rugged.

"In the R.R. exhibit, watercolors, brush drawings, and a block print touch a few of the present day features, with little change either in the R.R. or the style.

"Additional watercolors present both glamor and Isthmanian problems. A spray of orchids, a cluster of yellow shower from the tree, a monkey on a banana branch, a vista of bluegreen water, thick jungle, fill in the lore and legend of life with the Panama Canal.

"The JWB Gallery sponsored by the Canal Zone Art League has flower compositions, sample scenes of Haiti and Costo Rica, a Chiriqui Indian head, and prints to vary the diet of aesthetic taste. But the 'piece de resistance' is the oil in contemporary style, rich in color and arresting in design. A room could be designed around it. This exhibition will remain through Jan. 22 while that in the Civil Affairs Building will extend till the end of the month.

"Miss Gardner who studied in Europe as well as New York, Chicago and San Francisco is well known in art circles and teaching circles on the Isthmus. She has spent 25 years painting in the Central American area as well as South America. Experimenting in styles and techniques, her work has been well received in New York and has been shown as far south as Peru. A member of the Woodstock Artists Association, the American Artists Professional League, the American Association of University Women, the artist has kept abreast of the times.

"She organized the art in the Canal Zone schools in 1930 and organized the Canal Zone Art League of 1940. The mural in Bishop Morris Hall in St. Luke's in Ancon was painted in 1944 by Miss Gardner.

"Having taught in the Canal Zone Junior College and both high schools, her students are scattered over the Western Hemisphere and her interests are international."

Rotary Club Views Hurricane Hunters

Woodstock, Jan. 20 — At the meeting of the Woodstock Rotary Club last Monday evening, the members were entertained with a film, The Hurricane Hunters, prepared by the air weather command of the U. S. Air Force. It showed in spectacular form how the crews went out in their planes hunting the recent hurricanes, flying into the "eye" and sending back radio appraisals as to their intensity. This advance warning was said to be accountable for saving millions of dollars in property damage and many lives.

The "briefing" was given by Major Fred Weigand who came to the meeting from the Stewart AFB at Newburg where he is in command of the air weather command unit stationed there.

He showed the members a map that he had prepared during the recent Hurricane Hazel. It clearly showed its progress from out in the Caribbean, up the Atlantic Coast, even as it passed over Ulster county and on up into Canada. After the meeting many of the members stayed to ask Major Weigand questions.

On Monday, Jan. 24, a charter night dinner will be held with visiting Rotarians expected from the area. The dinner will be held at Deanie's upstairs dining room.

Information Center Ready About May 1

Woodstock, Jan. 20—According to reports received, indications are that the new Woodstock Information Center will be finished shortly, but probably not put into use until around May 1, it was announced at the meeting of the Woodstock Business Association at Joseph Holdridge's Woodstock Motel. Display spaces on the rear wall of the building will soon be available to members.

It was voted at the meeting that the building, currently known variously as the information bureau, information center, information office will be officially designated as the Woodstock Information Center. The sign however, to be placed on or close to the building will be worded Woodstock Information and Exhibits. The sign will be placed so that it will be seen when approaching from Route 375 or from either direction on Route 212. The committee to discuss the proper positioning of the sign consists of Joseph Holdridge and Warren Hutty.

Members present received their supply of "check mailers" described last week. Cards are being sent to the few members not present to pick up their supply.

The Association's Valentine dinner will be held Saturday, Feb. 12, at Deanie's upstairs dining room. The reception will be at 7 p. m. with a roast beef dinner served promptly at 7:30 p. m. The dinner is for members of the Woodstock Business Association and their friends and the price is $3 per person including gratuities. A large turnout is expected and dancing will follow the dinner. Serving on the dinner committee are Harry Alpern, Joseph Deutsch and Ed Bauman.

This advance warning was said to be accountable for saving millions of dollars in property damage and many lives.

The "briefing" was given by Major Fred Weigand who came to the meeting from the Stewart AFB at Newburg where he is in command of the air weather command unit stationed there.

He showed the members a map that he had prepared during the recent Hurricane Hazel. It clearly showed its progress from out in the Caribbean, up the Atlantic Coast, even as it passed over Ulster county and on up into Canada. After the meeting many of the members stayed to ask Major Weigand questions.

On Monday, Jan. 24, a charter night dinner will be held with visiting Rotarians expected from the area. The dinner will be held at Deanie's upstairs dining room.

Information Center Ready About May 1

Woodstock, Jan. 20—According to reports received, indications are that the new Woodstock Information Center will be finished shortly, but probably not put into use until around May 1, it was announced at the meeting of the Woodstock Business Association at Joseph Holdridge's Woodstock Motel. Display spaces on the rear wall of the building will soon be available to members.

It was voted at the meeting that the building, currently known variously as the information bureau, information center, information office will be officially designated as the Woodstock Information Center. The sign however, to be placed on or close to the building will be worded Woodstock Information and Exhibits. The sign will be placed so that it will be seen when approaching from Route 375 or from either direction on Route 212. The committee to discuss the proper positioning of the sign consists of Joseph Holdridge and Warren Hutty.

Members present received their supply of "check mailers" described last week. Cards are being sent to the few members not present to pick up their supply.

The Association's Valentine dinner will be held Saturday, Feb. 12, at Deanie's upstairs dining room. The reception will be at 7 p. m. with a roast beef dinner served promptly at 7:30 p. m. The dinner is for members of the Woodstock Business Association and their friends and the price is $3 per person including gratuities. A large turnout is expected and dancing will follow the dinner. Serving on the dinner committee are Harry Alpern, Joseph Deutsch and Ed Bauman.

Absent From Crash?

Pueblo, Colo. (AP)—Antonio D. Trujillo, 17, admitted it was his car that smashed into the front of a downtown store, but claims he wasn't there at the time. Trujillo said he turned a corner and fell out of the vehicle, which continued on down the street. Finally, he said, it jumped the curb and hit the store. Officials say Trujillo will be called into court to explain the incident more fully.

Color Safety

Philadelphia (AP)—Post office vehicles in Philadelphia will get a color scheme combining patriotism and safety. Postmaster Raymond A. Thomas said the upper parts of trucks will be painted white, the lower parts blue with a bright red separation line. The postmaster said tests have shown the present olive color is difficult to see. The new decor, he said, was picked to reduce accidents.

Absent From Crash?

Pueblo, Colo. (AP)—Antonio D. Trujillo, 17, admitted it was his car that smashed into the front of a downtown store, but claims he wasn't there at the time. Trujillo said he turned a corner and fell out of the vehicle, which continued on down the street. Finally, he said, it jumped the curb and hit the store. Officials say Trujillo will be called into court to explain the incident more fully.

Color Safety

Philadelphia (AP)—Post office vehicles in Philadelphia will get a color scheme combining patriotism and safety. Postmaster Raymond A. Thomas said the upper parts of trucks will be painted white, the lower parts blue with a bright red separation line. The postmaster said tests have shown the present olive color is difficult to see. The new decor, he said, was picked to reduce accidents.

Featured in Film Tonight, Saturday

COLLEEN T. EVANS

Exclusive full-color scenes of the Texas City disaster of 1947 highlight the climax scenes of Oil Town, U.S.A., film release of Billy Graham Evangelistic Films to be shown tonight and Saturday at Bethany Hall of the First Dutch Church. The movie will begin each night at 7:30 o'clock.

The Texas City footage was filmed by a free-lance newsreel photographer in Houston, Tex., at the time of the disaster seven years ago. No use was made of the film until Director Dick Ross began to search for authentic scenes to highlight the story of Oiltown, U.S.A. He located the film, unused and in storage, and made arrangements to incorporate it into the moving story of the Billy Graham picture.

THE STORY centers around the life of a Houston oil millionaire who is brought to an abrupt realization of his need of a religious experience through danger to his daughter's life in the Texas City holocaust.

Featured in the film are Colleen Townsend Evans, Paul Power, Robert Clarke, Georgia Lee, Ralph Hoopes and the stars of Graham's earlier film, Mr. Texas, Redd Harper and Cindy Walker.

Need Common Denominator In Talk About Homework

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

The school term that my arithmetic teacher introduced me to fractions, I developed a chronic depression. It was over the phrase "common denominator." I did not know what one was.

Other children did. Joyously they would bounce up to announce the "common denominator" of one fourth and five eighths while I sat in my seat, sunk in deep gloom over my failure to understand.

I asked nobody for help with my arithmetic homework.

By spring vacation, my marks had become the subject of family agitation. A tutor was hastily hired. Some time during our first hour together, she said, "A common denominator" is just a grown-up name for this big number here. See how both these smaller numbers divide into it perfectly? That's all there is to a 'common denominator.' Now we copy the big number under these two lines. . . . ."

By the end of the second hour with her, I could do fractions.

I had not needed anyone to do my homework for me. All I'd needed was someone who could talk simply.

I do not know all the children in the world who have been discouraged by homework. Those I have known have been discouraged over it because of adult failure to talk simply.

Teaching is the ability to clarify. To clarify for children you have to talk simply.

Some of their teachers can't. That is why Eddie will come home appalled by an assignment to produce a "book review" on Ivanhoe. I hope it will occur to us that he doesn't know what a book review is. If it does, his dismay will not affect us. We won't imagine that we have to write his review. We won't hover over him nervously as he tries to produce what he hopes will be one.

We'll just say, "A book review is just writing down your reasons for liking or not liking some book. Did you like Ivanhoe? What's your best reason? All right, there's your first sentence. 'I like this story of the knight, Ivanhoe, because he was brave and kind to Rebecca' . . . ."

"Is it good or bad to help a child with homework?" several readers have asked me recently.

It seems to me always good to clarify a child's understanding of what's wanted from him. If he's properly clarified, he'll shove you away if you bother him while he's producing what's wanted.

No, I do not think that helping with homework teaches dependence if by helping we mean "clarification." On the contrary, if we don't explain things to them, the young can become most pestiferously dependent.

RECEIVING LINE AT GOLDEN WEDDING

A reader writes me as follows: "My parents will soon celebrate their golden wedding anniversary and a large afternoon reception is to be given in their honor. Our main problem is connection with this reception is the receiving line. Since none of the persons who attended mother and dad at their wedding are alive, my parents suggested that their seven children receive them. Would this be proper? If not, would a receiving line consisting of four generations be proper; that is, my parents, their oldest child, their oldest grandchild and the oldest great-grandchild?"

A receiving line of nine persons would be very awkward. Furthermore, I think the children of the anniversary couple should be free to look after the guests. The idea of the four generations receiving sounds very attractive to me.

Serving Coffee in the Afternoon

Dear Mrs. Post: I expect to give a large tea next week. In addition to tea, coffee will be served for those who prefer it. I would like to know if it would be proper to use my small after-dinner coffee cups at a party of this kind, or must regular size coffee cups be used.

Answer: Small after-dinner coffee cups are for use after luncheon or dinner. Coffee served at any other time should be in regular size coffee cups.

Concerning Signature

Dear Mrs. Post: I have recently married for the second time. I have quite a few out-of-town friends who do not know of my remarriage. When writing to them would it be permissible to use my deceased husband's name with my present one? It has been years since I used my maiden name and many of them probably have forgotten it, but all know my first marriage name.

Answer: You sign your present name and underneath in parenthesis write your former married name.

Featured in Film Tonight, Saturday

COLLEEN T. EVANS

Exclusive full-color scenes of the Texas City disaster of 1947 highlight the climax scenes of Oil Town, U.S.A., film release of Billy Graham Evangelistic Films to be shown tonight and Saturday at Bethany Hall of the First Dutch Church. The movie will begin each night at 7:30 o'clock.

The Texas City footage was filmed by a free-lance newsreel photographer in Houston, Tex., at the time of the disaster seven years ago. No use was made of the film until Director Dick Ross began to search for authentic scenes to highlight the story of Oiltown, U.S.A. He located the film, unused and in storage, and made arrangements to incorporate it into the moving story of the Billy Graham picture.

THE STORY centers around the life of a Houston oil millionaire who is brought to an abrupt realization of his need of a religious experience through danger to his daughter's life in the Texas City holocaust.

Featured in the film are Colleen Townsend Evans, Paul Power, Robert Clarke, Georgia Lee, Ralph Hoopes and the stars of Graham's earlier film, Mr. Texas, Redd Harper and Cindy Walker.

The Mature Parent

Need Common Denominator In Talk About Homework

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

The school term that my arithmetic teacher introduced me to fractions, I developed a chronic depression. It was over the phrase "common denominator." I did not know what one was.

Other children did. Joyously they would bounce up to announce the "common denominator" of one fourth and five eighths while I sat in my seat, sunk in deep gloom over my failure to understand.

I asked nobody for help with my arithmetic homework.

By spring vacation, my marks had become the subject of family agitation. A tutor was hastily hired. Some time during our first hour together, she said, "A common denominator" is just a grown-up name for this big number here. See how both these smaller numbers divide into it perfectly? That's all there is to a 'common denominator.' Now we copy the big number under these two lines. . . ."

By the end of the second hour with her, I could do fractions.

I had not needed anyone to do my homework for me. All I'd needed was someone who could talk simply.

I do not know all the children in the world who have been discouraged by homework. Those I have known have been discouraged over it because of adult failure to talk simply.

Teaching is the ability to clarify. To clarify for children you have to talk simply.

Some of their teachers can't. That is why Eddie will come home appalled by an assignment to produce a "book review" on Ivanhoe. I hope it will occur to us that he doesn't know what a book review is. If it does, his dismay will not affect us. We won't imagine that we have to write his review. We won't hover over him nervously as he tries to produce what he hopes will be one.

We'll just say, "A book review is just writing down your reasons for liking or not liking some book. Did you like Ivanhoe? What's your best reason? All right, there's your first sentence. 'I like this story of the knight, Ivanhoe, because he was brave and kind to Rebecca' . . . "

"Is it good or bad to help a child with homework?" several readers have asked me recently.

It seems to me always good to clarify a child's understanding of what's wanted from him. If he's properly clarified, he'll shove you away if you bother him while he's producing what's wanted.

No, I do not think that helping with homework teaches dependence if by helping we mean "clarification." On the contrary, if we don't explain things to them, the young can become most pestiferously dependent.

RECEIVING LINE AT GOLDEN WEDDING

A reader writes me as follows: "My parents will soon celebrate their golden wedding anniversary and a large afternoon reception is to be given in their honor. Our main problem is connection with this reception is the receiving line. Since none of the persons who attended mother and dad at their wedding are alive, my parents suggested that their seven children receive them. Would this be proper? If not, would a receiving line consisting of four generations be proper; that is, my parents, their oldest child, their oldest grandchild and the oldest great-grandchild?"

A receiving line of nine persons would be very awkward. Furthermore, I think the children of the anniversary couple should be free to look after the guests. The idea of the four generations receiving sounds very attractive to me.

Serving Coffee in the Afternoon

Dear Mrs. Post: I expect to give a large tea next week. In addition to tea, coffee will be served for those who prefer it. I would like to know if it would be proper to use my small after-dinner coffee cups at a party of this kind, or must regular size coffee cups be used.

Answer: Small after-dinner coffee cups are for use after luncheon or dinner. Coffee served at any other time should be in regular size coffee cups.

Concerning Signature

Dear Mrs. Post: I have recently married for the second time. I have quite a few out-of-town friends who do not know of my remarriage. When writing to them would it be permissible to use my deceased husband's name with my present one? It has been years since I used my maiden name and many of them probably have forgotten it, but all know my first marriage name.

Answer: You sign your present name and underneath in parenthesis write your former married name.

Think Play Out— Then Give Answer

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

What do you think of East's double of four hearts in today's hand? Put yourself in East's place, and imagine that you are playing in a national tournament. South is a pretty good player, neither the best nor the worst in the country. Should you double four hearts or should you pass?

There's no question in my mind: you should pass. The hand obviously belongs to the opponents since they have bid strongly and your side has never entered the auction. If four hearts is a bad contract, East-West will have an automatic good score; for then few other North-South pairs will reach the bad contract.

Opening lead—♣ 2

If four hearts is a good contract, it is pointless to double it. And if four hearts is one of those in-between contracts, the double may steer South into the winning line of play.

At most tables West opened the deuce of clubs, whether or not East doubled. When there was no double to guide him, declarer invariably finessed the club at the first trick. East won the first trick with the king of clubs and returned the suit for West to ruff.

That, of course, was the end for poor South. He lost the first two tricks and was sure to lose the ace of spades and at least one trump later on.

The situation was quite different when East doubled. South was careful to go up with the ace of clubs at the first trick. It was then just a matter of limiting the loss to one club, one spade, and one trump.

At the second trick South led a low trump from dummy. East played low, and South won a finesse with the jack. South got back to dummy with the ace of diamonds and led another trump. When East put up the queen declarer played low.

Now what was East to do? East might take the king of clubs and return the ten of clubs to dummy's queen, but declarer could then take another trump finesse, draw the last trump, and then knock out the ace of spades. East could make only three tricks, and declarer was bound to make his doubled contract.

School News

ONTEORA CENTRAL: Grace Wolpert Keene, actress and interpreter of current literature, appeared Tuesday at a high school assembly program in the school auditorium.

Her former tour in this area with the story of I Remember Mama was such an outstanding success that many schools urged her return at the earliest possible date.

This charming, petite and altogether gracious actress presented scenes from the following plays: Seventeen, The Robe, Elizabeth, the Queen, The Green Pasture, I Remember Mama.

As Grace Wolpert Keene tells the story it is entertainment at its best, but it is more than entertainment for it is likewise an effective presentation of a wholesome philosophy of American life.

Bills in Legislature

Albany, Jan. 21 (AP)—A proposal to classify traffic violations on the State Thruway as offenses, rather than crimes, now has bipartisan support—virtually assuring its enactment.

Identical bills to take the criminal sting out of such violations were introduced in the Legislature by Sen. Frank E. Van Lare of Rochester, a high-ranking Republican, and Eugene F. Bannigan of Brooklyn, Democratic minority leader of the Assembly.

TWO REPUBLICANS proposed $25,000 study of the state's divorce laws, and a Democratic senator urged adoption of a four-point program to help find jobs, homes and recreation for the aging.

The VanLare-Bannigan proposal would continue the present penalties for traffic violations on the thruway—fines up to $50 or jail terms as long as 30 days, or both. But the violation no longer would be tabbed a misdemeanor, thus tainting the offender with a criminal record.

A retroactive clause would remove the criminal stain from convictions for speeding and other violations that occurred before enactment of the measure.

IT STILL WOULD BE a misdemeanor to break Thruway rules involving toll payment and Thruway Authority property.

Under the proposal, state troopers patrolling the expressway would be empowered to enforce state vehicle and traffic laws as well as Thruway regulations. And special sessions courts would have authority to hear cases involving infractions of Thruway rules.

Reckless driving would continue to be a misdemeanor on the Thruway, as it is on all state parkways.

Assemblywoman Janet Hill Gordon of Chenango county and Sen. Dutton S. Peterson of Odessa proposed the study of the matrimonial laws. Similar legislation they introduced last year died in committee.

THEY SAID their bill was backed by the New York State Protestant Council, The Assn. of the Bar of the City of New York, the State Federation of Women's Clubs, the State Council of Churches, the New York Board of Rabbis and Children's Court judges.

Mrs. Gordon and Peterson, a Protestant clergyman, contended that "collusion anod connivance" flavored many divorce and annulment cases in the state. Adultery is the only ground for divorce in New York.

Councils on the aging would be established in the Executive, Education and Labor Departments under terms of a bill sponsored by Democratic Assemblyman Bernard Austin of Brooklyn. A yearly appropriation of $50,000 was asked for each council.

Austin also proposed the creation of private, non-profit corporations, authorized to issue bonds with state approval to finance dwellings for persons over 60 and their dependents.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Walter Reuther, of the C.I.O., advocates a year-round wage and "shift the cost to management." Sounds beautiful, doesn't it? But where does management get the dough? From its customers. Reuther wants everybody to guarantee his union members that they can ride through life without financial risks.

But the C.I.O. and A.F.L. are customers. They, too, will pay part of the freight.

Mr. Hutton

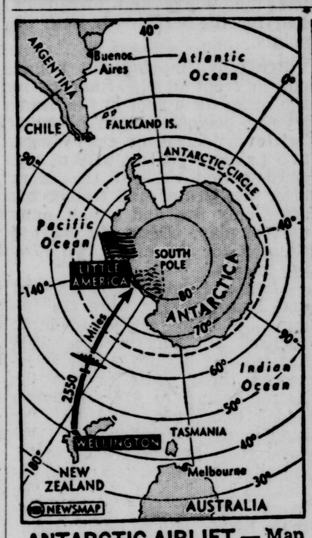

Mr. Reuther also hopped onto the Income Tax. He wants to relieve more people of paying taxes, while increasing Government spending. Fine, just fine!

He proposes to advise the Administration about building more homes; providing more Social Security; more money for health insurance; more hospitals, and, in fact, more and more of everything! Just step up the outgo and cut down the in-come.

But the deed and title to Reuther's home would not be secure if he were spending more than his income. But it's different with the Government! So he says. Maybe he believes it.

Corporations do not pay taxes or year-round wages. They unload on their customers all costs of production. Name one that doesn't, or go broke. Mr. Reuther wouldn't invest a dollar of his own in such a company, if he could find one.

That's it, neighbor!

Woman's Club Plans Loan Closet Benefit

Rosendale, Jan. 20—In an effort to raise funds for the purchase of an additional and much needed hospital bed for the town of Rosendale loan closet, the Woman's Club of Rosendale will sponsor a benefit on February 12.

The town loan closet is one of the club's most important projects. It has been so successful, as well as rewarding, that the purchase of an additional hospital bed will help relieve the constant demand for such beds. Records of the items most frequently used reveal that the greatest need is for beds and wheelchairs. Several other items are also available. Since the opening of the loan closet, which is housed in the Rosendale Grange Hall on Main street, these beds and wheel chairs have served many people, being idle only a matter of days in between aiding patients.

The club will sponsor a food sale beginning about 11 a. m. The program will continue through the afternoon.

The club urges everyone in the Town of Rosendale to help support its project, since the loan closet is for all residents of the township.

Think Play Out— Then Give Answer

What do you think of East's double of four hearts in today's hand? Put yourself in East's place, and imagine that you are playing in a national tournament. South is a pretty good player, neither the best nor the worst in the country. Should you double four hearts or should you pass?

There's no question in my mind: you should pass. The hand obviously belongs to the opponents since they have bid strongly and your side has never entered the auction. If four hearts is a bad contract, East-West will have an automatic good score; for then few other North-South pairs will reach the bad contract.

Opening lead—♣ 2

If four hearts is a good contract, it is pointless to double it. And if four hearts is one of those in-between contracts, the double may steer South into the winning line of play.

At most tables West opened the deuce of clubs, whether or not East doubled. When there was no double to guide him, declarer invariably finessed the club at the first trick. East won the first trick with the king of clubs and returned the suit for West to ruff.

That, of course, was the end for poor South. He lost the first two tricks and was sure to lose the ace of spades and at least one trump later on.

The situation was quite different when East doubled. South was careful to go up with the ace of clubs at the first trick. It was then just a matter of limiting the loss to one club, one spade, and one trump.

At the second trick South led a low trump from dummy. East played low, and South won a finesse with the jack. South got back to dummy with the ace of diamonds and led another trump. When East put up the queen declarer played low.

Now what was East to do? East might take the king of clubs and return the ten of clubs to dummy's queen, but declarer could then take another trump finesse, draw the last trump, and then knock out the ace of spades. East could make only three tricks, and declarer was bound to make his doubled contract.

ONTEORA CENTRAL: Grace Wolpert Keene, actress and interpreter of current literature, appeared Tuesday at a high school assembly program in the school auditorium.

This charming, petite and altogether gracious actress presented scenes from the following plays: Seventeen, The Robe, Elizabeth, the Queen, The Green Pasture, I Remember Mama.

As Grace Wolpert Keene tells the story it is entertainment at its best, but it is more than entertainment for it is likewise an effective presentation of a wholesome philosophy of American life.

Bills in Legislature

Albany, Jan. 21 (AP)—A proposal to classify traffic violations on the State Thruway as offenses, rather than crimes, now has bipartisan support—virtually assuring its enactment.

Identical bills to take the criminal sting out of such violations were introduced in the Legislature by Sen. Frank E. Van Lare of Rochester, a high-ranking Republican, and Eugene F. Bannigan of Brooklyn, Democratic minority leader of the Assembly.

TWO REPUBLICANS proposed $25,000 study of the state's divorce laws, and a Democratic senator urged adoption of a four-point program to help find jobs, homes and recreation for the aging.

The VanLare-Bannigan proposal would continue the present penalties for traffic violations on the thruway—fines up to $50 or jail terms as long as 30 days, or both. But the violation no longer would be tabbed a misdemeanor, thus tainting the offender with a criminal record.

A retroactive clause would remove the criminal stain from convictions for speeding and other violations that occurred before enactment of the measure.

IT STILL WOULD BE a misdemeanor to break Thruway rules involving toll payment and Thruway Authority property.

Under the proposal, state troopers patrolling the expressway would be empowered to enforce state vehicle and traffic laws as well as Thruway regulations. And special sessions courts would have authority to hear cases involving infractions of Thruway rules.

Reckless driving would continue to be a misdemeanor on the Thruway, as it is on all state parkways.

Assemblywoman Janet Hill Gordon of Chenango county and Sen. Dutton S. Peterson of Odessa proposed the study of the matrimonial laws. Similar legislation they introduced last year died in committee.

THEY SAID their bill was backed by the New York State Protestant Council, The Assn. of the Bar of the City of New York, the State Federation of Women's Clubs, the State Council of Churches, the New York Board of Rabbis and Children's Court judges.

Mrs. Gordon and Peterson, a Protestant clergyman, contended that "collusion anod connivance" flavored many divorce and annulment cases in the state. Adultery is the only ground for divorce in New York.

Councils on the aging would be established in the Executive, Education and Labor Departments under terms of a bill sponsored by Democratic Assemblyman Bernard Austin of Brooklyn. A yearly appropriation of $50,000 was asked for each council.

Austin also proposed the creation of private, non-profit corporations, authorized to issue bonds with state approval to finance dwellings for persons over 60 and their dependents.

Maroon Picked; Ellies to Test Newburgh Poughkeepsie At Middletown

Kingston High figures to handle winless Liberty (0-6) tonight at the Kate Walton field house (8 p. m.) but the big question in the DUSO basketball league is: Can Ellenville High knock Newburgh Academy from its unbeaten perch on the Ellies' home boards?

THE ODDSMAKERS say no, but the remainder of the DUSO conference is hoping . . . and waiting. With three tough road victories to their credit, the Goldbacks are threatening to compile the first perfect league record in seasons.

Coach G. Warren Kias' Maroons are clicking at top efficiency, having rolled up 157 points in recent outings against Ellenville (72-35) and Fallsburgh Central (85-53). First line players saw action about 75 per cent of the time in each case.

On paper Liberty doesn't seem like much but you never can tell. The Redskins' best operator is veteran guard Art Henry.

KINGSTON FIGURES to go with Skip Brodhead and Tom Flemming up front; Ray Lawrence at center; and Bob Maines and Don Baum or Marty Kantrowitz in the backcourt.

Other DUSO action sends Poughkeepsie's Blues to Middletown, while Monticello travels to Port Jervis and maybe a lot of trouble.

Highland is 5-2 in the standings.

An intercollegiate game of interest to Kingston High School fans is the New Paltz State-Oneonta game Saturday night at New Paltz.

2 Setbacks Cost Wings Tie in NHL

(By The Associated Press)

Defeats on two successive nights by the lesser lights of the National Hockey League have cost the Detroit Red Wings undisputed possession of first place.

After dropping a 2-0 decision to the fifth place New York Rangers Wednesday night, the Wings fell before the fourth place Boston 3-2 last night while the Montreal Canadiens were running wild against the Toronto Maple Leafs 6-2. The results left the Wings and Canadiens tied for the lead, each with 59 points.

BOSTON, moving six points out in front of the Rangers in the scrap for a spot in the Stanley Cup playoffs, staged an uphill battle in defeating the Wings. Leo Labine's goal at 6:18 of the third period decided the issue after the Bruins had trailed 2-0 after only five and a half minutes of play. Doug Mohons accounted for the other two Boston scores.

Maurice (The Rocket) Richard and Jean Beliveau were the big guns in Montreal's triumph. Richard put together the 23rd hat trick of his pro career as he scored three goals to run his league record to 410. Beliveau added two more. Both of the high scoring Canadiens ran their total goals for the season to 26.

Beliveau also picked up an assist to go into a tie for the league scoring lead with teammate Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion. Each has 50 points.

Basilio Risks Title Shot in Mueller Bout

Syracuse, Jan. 21 (AP)—Carmen Basilio gambles on a tentative April 1 title shot with welterweight champ Johnny Saxton tonight when he boxes Peter Mueller, sturdy German middleweight, in a 10-round match at War Memorial Auditorium. A sellout crowd of 8,700 and a gross gate of $40,000 are expected.

Syracuse will be blacked out on television. Otherwise the show gets the usual network radio-TV (NBC) treatment, starting at 10 p. m. (EST).

OF COURSE, Basilio might not lose his second chance at the 147-pound title if he should be beaten by Mueller. The match was made at a 155-pound contract over the welter limit. However, a defeat in his home territory would be damaging to the prestige of the No. 1 contender.

Basilio, however, is a solid 14 to 5 favorite to make the "Clown of Cologne" jump through the hoops. Unbeaten since he lost a disputed split decision to Kid Gavilan in a title fight, Sept. 18, 1953, Basilio is a vastly improved boxer.

THE 27-YEAR-OLD son of a Canastota, N. Y., onion farmer is a good left hooker who can punch to the head or body with equal effect. He can take a solid smash and always is trained to the peak of condition. For the Mueller fight he'll probably weigh 150 to Mueller's 155.

Mueller, 27, won a dubious distinction by knocking out a German referee in 1952. He was suspended "for life" but was reinstated two years later. After losing his first fight in the U. S. to Gene Fullmer, Nov. 15, he upset Tiger Jones and Joe Miceli and stopped Ernie Durando all within 24 days. He may not be the best boxer, but he's the busiest for they already have dates lined up for him into April.

DiMaggio Would Take Job in Coast Major; Sees Little League Savior of Baseball

Los Angeles, Jan. 21 (AP)—He is now 40 years old and has been away from baseball wars for four years, but Joe Di Maggio would be interested in getting back in some capacity, if and when the major leagues come to the west coast.

The Yankee Clipper, a bit thinner than his 187-pound playing Weight and his hair flecked with gray, was in a reflective mood when a reporter found him lounging in a Hollywood hotel lobby yesterday.

"I'M GLAD I played ball when I did," he said. "In my era we had great rookies coming up in handsful every spring. Now, if there is a Willie Mays once in two years, baseball people consider themselves lucky. I think there are too many buildings and not enough vacant lots. Maybe the Little League will fill the gap, eventually."

Joe says he's still mulling over what he'll do for the rest of his life. He said he has rejected many business offers. Financially, he's fairly secure, but he says he needs to tie into something that is both interesting and permanent.

"If I had a chance to catch on in the majors in an executive capacity after the majors come here, I'd like that," Di Maggio explained. "But I don't want to leave California. I'm happy here. I divide my time between Los Angeles and San Francisco."

RIGHT NOW, Joe is lining up a television show and is flying back to New York next week to discuss it. He says he may take a group of major leaguers of Italian descent to Italy next October.

Di Maggio's 13-year-old son, Joe Jr., attends school in Los Angeles. The ex-Yankee outfielder says the boy intends to attend college, "which one I don't know, but it will depend on which has the best football team, I guess."

Joe considers his greatest thrill in baseball his 56-game hitting streak "and the time in Boston when I hit four homers in three days after being out 60 games with a bum heel."

Bolt Leading At San Diego 8 - Under 64

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 21 (AP)—Tempestuous Tommy Bolt of Texas led the way into the second round of the $15,000 San Diego Open golf tournament today on the heels of a remarkable round of 29-35-64 over the flat, windy Mission Valley Country Club course.

Bolt swung toward the 36-hole mark eight strokes under par 36-36-72, and he looked impressive in his opening bid for the tournament he won three years ago.

THE JOURNEY toward the $2,400 top money remained hazardous, however, for the 34-year-old Houston professional, who banged out seven straight birdies from the opening green on yesterday.

One shot back was a stranger to headlines, Paul McGuire of Wichita, Kan. This 26-year-old pro could be tough, and his score of 31-34-65 was no less remarkable than Bolt's in view of his comparative inexperience in tournament play.

A pro since 1949, but a tournament performer for the entire winter-summer tour only last year, McGuire showed his class in finishing second to Cary Middlecoff, and tied with former National Open champion Julius Boros, just last Sunday in the Bing Crosby tournament at Pebble Beach.

FOUR STROKES back of Bolt at this early stage of matters were six professionals — Art Wall, Doug Ford, Bud Holscher, Shelley Mayfield and Henry Williams.

Just one stroke back of the pace was the pre-tournament choice, Gene Littler, with a 36-33-69. Littler was grouped with the others at 69, notably national king Ed Furgol, Johnny Palmer and Canada's Stan Leonard.

Colonials Stop Tech

By The Associated Press

The upset streak finally has been upset in college basketball.

George Washington's Colonials, who earlier this week had a hand in one of the numerous form reversals, took charge of Virginia Tech in fine style 95-60 last night. That closed out a string of upsets among the nation's top 10 teams that had knocked off four kingpins in three nights this week.

Illinois, No. 7, in this week's Associated Press poll, was jolted by Iowa Monday; second-ranked North Carolina State and Sixth-ranked Maryland were dropped by North Carolina and George Washington, respectively. Tuesday, and Kansas State surprised eighth-ranked Missouri Wednesday.

BUT GEORGE WASHINGTON, No. 9, brought the situation back into proper perspective with ease. The Colonials and the rest of the top 10 had had the odds riding with them, however — George Washington was the only high ranking team on the job last night.

Even among the unranked teams things went as expected. Colgate defeated Cornell for the second time this season 63-57, Tulsa followed the IBA-stying with a 48-42 victory over Oklahoma City, Wichita spilled Seattle 74-71 and Texas A&M beat Louisiana State 58-47.

Santee Sees Indoor Mile Threatened

Philadelphia, Jan. 21 (AP)—Wes Santee takes to the boards for the first time this season in the 1955 Philadelphia Inquirer games at Convention Hall tonight and the world's ranking active miler thinks he'll do all right.

"I think the winner of the race (although he didn't say he'd win) will run pretty close to the world (indoor) record and probably will top it if conditions are right," he said.

"THIS IS MY first time on the boards this season and I've never run on the boards here before," he continued. "But I'll see what happens. I think I'm due for a good night one of these days."

He then went on to amplify that remark by listing the weather "washouts" at New Orleans and California which cost him avowed efforts to take a crack at breaking the four-minute mile.

GIL DODDS' world indoor mark of 4:05.3, set in 1948, figures to get a good test from Santee who in turn figures to have all he can handle in Denmark's Gunnar Neilsen and Belfast's Vic Milligan.

Nielsen won the mile event in the Boston Knights of Columbus games last Saturday night in 4:07.9 and has said he's confident he can set a new world's mark before the indoor season ends.

Another world mark is endangered in the 600-yard dash with Villanova's Charley Jenkins figured the winner. Jenkins was a half second off the world's record in the Boston meet.

Kingston High School basketball fans might get a charge watching Bob Bondar and Johnny Godwin competing against each other tonight at the New Paltz State gym.

Godwin, who took over for the stricken Bob Miller for the Hawks on a Connecticut safari last weekend, will trade baskets with Bondar, first string player at Oneonta State.

Bondar and Godwin haven't received the acclaim of Dick Bezemer, Ronnie Scheffel and Frank Koenig this season, but both are solid players who have been playing excellent ball for their respective teams.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Saugerties High's uninterrupted success in the UCAL proves the value of teamwork. A couple of the best players were dropped for violating training rules, but the other kids just dug in and played harder. The result—a clean slate and a 93-point shellacking of Wallkill Tuesday night. . . . The conviction basketball players are getting taller every year has been given proof as a result of surveys by Phog Allen, Kansas coach, for the NEA syndicate, which services The Daily Freeman. . . . Phog reports that in 1937 he was able to list only 15 basketball players in the collegiate ranks who were 6' 7" or more. Allen estimates there are now at least 1000 cagers that tall. His latest survey, restricted to college players 6' 8" and over, turned up 42 men of that stature or higher. Tallest was 7' 3". In 1937, 6-feet-10 was tops.

• Of Men and Mice:

Bob Umpleby made a fast trip to Florida to lower his golf handicap and deliver one of those dreamboats. . . . Commissioner Bert Bell's annual motion to abolish the extra point in professional football has solid support in NFL statistics which show the kickers this year missed only 19 points in 400 tries. Doak Walker of Detroit went 43 for 43. Les Richter of the Los Angeles Rams kicked 38 out of 38. Ben Agajanian of the Giants had a clean slate of 35. Lou "The Toe" Groza of Cleveland kicked 36 out of 37, the one miss—against the Giants, halting a streak that had passed 60. . . . Bell's idea is to have the kicking specialists concentrate on field goals, which he describes as much more spectacular and eye catching than the monotonous extra-point try. He doesn't advise it for college or high school teams, who don't have time enough to develop specialists.

Army's basketball game with George Washington University (No. 9 in the national ranking) at West Point on Feb. 12 should attract a big Kingston gathering. . . . Jack Whalen has us checking a tip that Frank Ramsey, the ex-All-American at Kentucky University, now a star rookie with the Boston Celtics, spent his early boyhood in Kingston. His family later moved to Albany where Ramsey is supposed to have received a scholarship for Kentucky. . . . Any information on the subject would be appreciated. We're in the midst of compiling the all-time Kingston High School football and basketball records. It should make interesting reading when all the material is finally assembled. Meanwhile, Willie is back north and the Giants are glad to have him.

Bolt Leading At San Diego 8 - Under 64

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 21 (AP)—Tempestuous Tommy Bolt of Texas led the way into the second round of the $15,000 San Diego Open golf tournament today on the heels of a remarkable round of 29-35-64 over the flat, windy Mission Valley Country Club course.

Bolt swung toward the 36-hole mark eight strokes under par 36-36-72, and he looked impressive in his opening bid for the tournament he won three years ago.

THE JOURNEY toward the $2,400 top money remained hazardous, however, for the 34-year-old Houston professional, who banged out seven straight birdies from the opening green on yesterday.

One shot back was a stranger to headlines, Paul McGuire of Wichita, Kan. This 26-year-old pro could be tough, and his score of 31-34-65 was no less remarkable than Bolt's in view of his comparative inexperience in tournament play.

A pro since 1949, but a tournament performer for the entire winter-summer tour only last year, McGuire showed his class in finishing second to Cary Middlecoff, and tied with former National Open champion Julius Boros, just last Sunday in the Bing Crosby tournament at Pebble Beach.

FOUR STROKES back of Bolt at this early stage of matters were six professionals — Art Wall, Doug Ford, Bud Holscher, Shelley Mayfield and Henry Williams.

Just one stroke back of the pace was the pre-tournament choice, Gene Littler, with a 36-33-69. Littler was grouped with the others at 69, notably national king Ed Furgol, Johnny Palmer and Canada's Stan Leonard.

Colonials Stop Tech

By The Associated Press

The upset streak finally has been upset in college basketball.

George Washington's Colonials, who earlier this week had a hand in one of the numerous form reversals, took charge of Virginia Tech in fine style 95-60 last night. That closed out a string of upsets among the nation's top 10 teams that had knocked off four kingpins in three nights this week.

Illinois, No. 7, in this week's Associated Press poll, was jolted by Iowa Monday; second-ranked North Carolina State and Sixth-ranked Maryland were dropped by North Carolina and George Washington, respectively. Tuesday, and Kansas State surprised eighth-ranked Missouri Wednesday.

BUT GEORGE WASHINGTON, No. 9, brought the situation back into proper perspective with ease. The Colonials and the rest of the top 10 had had the odds riding with them, however — George Washington was the only high ranking team on the job last night.

Even among the unranked teams things went as expected. Colgate defeated Cornell for the second time this season 63-57, Tulsa followed the IBA-stying with a 48-42 victory over Oklahoma City, Wichita spilled Seattle 74-71 and Texas A&M beat Louisiana State 58-47.

Santee Sees Indoor Mile Threatened

Philadelphia, Jan. 21 (AP)—Wes Santee takes to the boards for the first time this season in the 1955 Philadelphia Inquirer games at Convention Hall tonight and the world's ranking active miler thinks he'll do all right.

"I think the winner of the race (although he didn't say he'd win) will run pretty close to the world (indoor) record and probably will top it if conditions are right," he said.

"THIS IS MY first time on the boards this season and I've never run on the boards here before," he continued. "But I'll see what happens. I think I'm due for a good night one of these days."

He then went on to amplify that remark by listing the weather "washouts" at New Orleans and California which cost him avowed efforts to take a crack at breaking the four-minute mile.

GIL DODDS' world indoor mark of 4:05.3, set in 1948, figures to get a good test from Santee who in turn figures to have all he can handle in Denmark's Gunnar Neilsen and Belfast's Vic Milligan.

Nielsen won the mile event in the Boston Knights of Columbus games last Saturday night in 4:07.9 and has said he's confident he can set a new world's mark before the indoor season ends.

Another world mark is endangered in the 600-yard dash with Villanova's Charley Jenkins figured the winner. Jenkins was a half second off the world's record in the Boston meet.

Kingston High School basketball fans might get a charge watching Bob Bondar and Johnny Godwin competing against each other tonight at the New Paltz State gym.

Godwin, who took over for the stricken Bob Miller for the Hawks on a Connecticut safari last weekend, will trade baskets with Bondar, first string player at Oneonta State.

Bondar and Godwin haven't received the acclaim of Dick Bezemer, Ronnie Scheffel and Frank Koenig this season, but both are solid players who have been playing excellent ball for their respective teams.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Saugerties High's uninterrupted success in the UCAL proves the value of teamwork. A couple of the best players were dropped for violating training rules, but the other kids just dug in and played harder. The result—a clean slate and a 93-point shellacking of Wallkill Tuesday night. . . . The conviction basketball players are getting taller every year has been given proof as a result of surveys by Phog Allen, Kansas coach, for the NEA syndicate, which services The Daily Freeman. . . . Phog reports that in 1937 he was able to list only 15 basketball players in the collegiate ranks who were 6' 7" or more. Allen estimates there are now at least 1000 cagers that tall. His latest survey, restricted to college players 6' 8" and over, turned up 42 men of that stature or higher. Tallest was 7' 3". In 1937, 6-feet-10 was tops.

• Of Men and Mice:

Bob Umpleby made a fast trip to Florida to lower his golf handicap and deliver one of those dreamboats. . . . Commissioner Bert Bell's annual motion to abolish the extra point in professional football has solid support in NFL statistics which show the kickers this year missed only 19 points in 400 tries. Doak Walker of Detroit went 43 for 43. Les Richter of the Los Angeles Rams kicked 38 out of 38. Ben Agajanian of the Giants had a clean slate of 35. Lou "The Toe" Groza of Cleveland kicked 36 out of 37, the one miss—against the Giants, halting a streak that had passed 60. . . . Bell's idea is to have the kicking specialists concentrate on field goals, which he describes as much more spectacular and eye catching than the monotonous extra-point try. He doesn't advise it for college or high school teams, who don't have time enough to develop specialists.

Army's basketball game with George Washington University (No. 9 in the national ranking) at West Point on Feb. 12 should attract a big Kingston gathering. . . . Jack Whalen has us checking a tip that Frank Ramsey, the ex-All-American at Kentucky University, now a star rookie with the Boston Celtics, spent his early boyhood in Kingston. His family later moved to Albany where Ramsey is supposed to have received a scholarship for Kentucky. . . . Any information on the subject would be appreciated. We're in the midst of compiling the all-time Kingston High School football and basketball records. It should make interesting reading when all the material is finally assembled. Meanwhile, Willie is back north and the Giants are glad to have him.

Cousy Returns To Celtic Lineup

(By the Associated Press)

Bob Cousy is slated to return to action tonight when the Boston Celtics meet the Philadelphia Warriors in New Haven and you can't blame Coach Red Auerbach if he says a prayer of thanks.

The Celtics' great all-around player, handicapped by a knee injured in Tuesday's all-star game, saw only limited action as Fort Wayne whipped Boston Wednesday night and wasn't even with the team when it dropped a 82-87 decision to the Syracuse Nationals last night. It was the first game Cousy had missed in his five-year 336-game National Basketball Association career.

An examination yesterday showed the injury not serious and Cousy said he expected to be in the lineup tonight against the Warriors.

The Celtics trail the Nats by one and a half games in the eastern division.

The Minneapolis Lakers made it two straight over the Milwaukee Hawks on their southern tour, winning 97-90 at Shreveport, La. They finish the tour at Baton Rouge tonight.

ASKS AID — Sen. George Smathers (D., Fla.) plans to introduce Point 4 legislation in Congress, aimed at building up trade and cultural relations with Latin America. He says his program will range from important financial legislation to measures dealing with exchange of students.

THE RECORD SHOP: The album of "Fanny" has done so well that RCA will issue two single sides — Walter Slezak singing "To My Wife" and "Never Too Late for Love." Watch out, Sinatra, here comes Slezak.

Families are nice to have around the house. Exhibit A is George Shearing's daughter, Wendy Ann, who is 12.

Shearing, of course, is the great jazz pianist of MGM records and assorted night clubs. His daughter is following, more or less, in his finger tips and is a serious student of the piano at Juilliard. Generally, she concentrates on classical music, but—

"Christmas morning," says the proud father, "she said she wanted to play me a Christmas present. So I sat down and she played a jazz arrangement of my tune, 'Lullaby of Birdland.' Nicest Christmas present I ever got."

Shearing is an Englishman who is blind. He started his career in a pub in Lambeth, the Mason Arms. After he'd been playing there a while, he had a chance to join a band.

"My father," he remembers, "was one of those old-fashioned Englishmen who didn't think I should try to better myself. Class-conscious, you know. So he said, "The manager of the pub was good to you, paid you your two quid a week, stay there.' But I went away.

"Then I had a chance to audition for the BBC. My father said, "The band leader was nice to you, paid you your five quid a week, stay there.' But I took the audition and got a job.

"Then I wanted to come to America. My father said, 'You're doing fine where you are, make your bundle every week, stay here'."

Most jazz lovers are glad that George Shearing didn't take his father's advice. So, for that matter, is George Shearing.

Thunderbird is the name of the newest record label. The firm was started by some songwriters who got slightly fed up with publishers and record executives who took their songs, then didn't do anything with them. Jordan Ramin, one of the group, says, "We'll have the satisfaction of knowing that, even if the songs do flop, at least we tried." First release features Jack Haskell and the Ray Charles singers. Good stuff, too!

Thunderbird's on the wing.

Thruway Booms Ski Business At Snow Ridge

Opening of the New York State Thruway has brought more business to the state's most rapidly growing privately-operated ski center — Snow Ridge at Turin.

Now in its 10th year of operation, its December business was 75 per cent higher than in any previous year and with the season's mid-point still to be reached, the operators expect a record-breaking year, they report to the New York State Department of Commerce.

Snow Ridge is 50 miles north of the Utica Interchange of the thruway and thus within easy driving distance for skiers from the Mohawk valley, Syracuse and Rochester. Buffalo is now only four hours away and Clevelanders are finding Snow Ridge available.

Snow Ridge, in the Tug Hill snow belt, receives the heaviest falls east of the Rockies. A two-inch base is enough to provide skiing on 60 per cent of an area which includes more than 300 acres. From mid-December until the end of March, Snow Ridge's cover is consistently heavy.

THE FIRST POMA lift in the east is now installed at Snow Ridge and has increased uphill capacity to 1,500 skiers an hour. In addition to the seven slopes there are six trails, including one certified by the United States Eastern Ski Association for downhill competition.

An innovation at Snow Ridge is lighting on two slopes for night skiing and this year, for what is believed to be the first time at any ski center, ski school sessions will be held at night. Special "businessmen's sessions" will be held two evenings a week in addition to the daytime classes.

Rudy Kuersteiner, certified by both the Swiss and the Eastern ski associations is the new director of the Snow Ridge school. On weekends six instructors will be on duty. The whole region is ski conscious. Extensive ski training programs are conducted in the public schools.

Overnight accommodations for more than 500 visitors are offered in more than 30 establishments. They range from hotels and motels to country farmhouses.

Hotels in Lyons Falls, which is on the Watertown branch of the New York Central railroad, provide guests with transportation to the slopes.

Youth Draws Death Chair

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—An 18-year-old youth drew a death chair verdict and his 15-year-old former girl friend a possible life term yesterday for the murder of her mother who interfered with their passionate romance.

An all-male jury convicted William Byers, and 170-pound Theresa Gresh of the murder of Mrs. Anna Gresh, 43, last March 4.

She was hammered and stabbed and her body was crammed into a kitchen tub in her lower East Side apartment and was covered with plaster of Paris.

Cousy Returns To Celtic Lineup

(By the Associated Press)

Bob Cousy is slated to return to action tonight when the Boston Celtics meet the Philadelphia Warriors in New Haven and you can't blame Coach Red Auerbach if he says a prayer of thanks.

The Celtics' great all-around player, handicapped by a knee injured in Tuesday's all-star game, saw only limited action as Fort Wayne whipped Boston Wednesday night and wasn't even with the team when it dropped a 82-87 decision to the Syracuse Nationals last night. It was the first game Cousy had missed in his five-year 336-game National Basketball Association career.

An examination yesterday showed the injury not serious and Cousy said he expected to be in the lineup tonight against the Warriors.

The Celtics trail the Nats by one and a half games in the eastern division.

The Minneapolis Lakers made it two straight over the Milwaukee Hawks on their southern tour, winning 97-90 at Shreveport, La. They finish the tour at Baton Rouge tonight.

ASKS AID — Sen. George Smathers (D., Fla.) plans to introduce Point 4 legislation in Congress, aimed at building up trade and cultural relations with Latin America. He says his program will range from important financial legislation to measures dealing with exchange of students.

Families are nice to have around the house. Exhibit A is George Shearing's daughter, Wendy Ann, who is 12.

Shearing, of course, is the great jazz pianist of MGM records and assorted night clubs. His daughter is following, more or less, in his finger tips and is a serious student of the piano at Juilliard. Generally, she concentrates on classical music, but—

"Christmas morning," says the proud father, "she said she wanted to play me a Christmas present. So I sat down and she played a jazz arrangement of my tune, 'Lullaby of Birdland.' Nicest Christmas present I ever got."

Shearing is an Englishman who is blind. He started his career in a pub in Lambeth, the Mason Arms. After he'd been playing there a while, he had a chance to join a band.

"My father," he remembers, "was one of those old-fashioned Englishmen who didn't think I should try to better myself. Class-conscious, you know. So he said, 'The manager of the pub was good to you, paid you your two quid a week, stay there.' But I went away.

"Then I had a chance to audition for the BBC. My father said, 'The band leader was nice to you, paid you your five quid a week, stay there.' But I took the audition and got a job.

"Then I wanted to come to America. My father said, 'You're doing fine where you are, make your bundle every week, stay here'."

Most jazz lovers are glad that George Shearing didn't take his father's advice. So, for that matter, is George Shearing.

First release features Jack Haskell and the Ray Charles singers. Good stuff, too!

major noticeable refurbishing being to the cocktail lounge, which is now one of the most modern and attractive in the area.

Requirements of the Multiple Dwelling Law were met through expenditure of $10,000 on the hotel annex and apartment building in the rear of the main building.

Directors were reelected and voted to refinance existing financial obligations through a first mortgage on the hotel premises and retire the existing first mortgage and the remaining second mortgage bonds.

A mortgage for $150,000 to refinance existing obligations will be used to retire a first mortgage held by the Metropolitan Insurance Company for $40,000 and to pay the remaining second mortgage bonds which were issued at the time the hotel capacity was increased through erection of an addition. There remain second mortgage bonds for $99,600 which become due on February 1.

Reelected directors are A. H. Wicks, Peter A. Black, W. Anderson Carl, N. J. Fowler, R. R. Gross, A. J. Burns, Stanley Matthews, S. E. Hockenbury, T. A. Dandrew.

Financial reports were given by W. A. Carl, treasurer, and N. Jansen Fowler, acting secretary, reported on the year's business. A report was presented by T. A. Dandrew for Manager R. B. Gross, who was absent due to illness. Dandrew reported the property in good condition and he too predicted improved business.

The board of directors will meet later to elect officers and organize.

First plate glass was ground and polished by rubbing two plates together by hand.

Narcotics Ring ReportedSmashed

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—Police and federal agents have announced the smashing of a six-nation narcotics ring, climaxing 10 months of detective work by seizing two alleged ringleaders and a courier.

In coordinated moves yesterday, authorities arrested Regula Escalona, 35, of Mexico City; William Morales, 29, of (145 East 150th street) the Bronx, and Nicholas Vento, 23, of (834 Brady avenue) the Bronx.

Escalona was taken into custody as he was about to board a Boston-bound plane. Police said he had in his luggage 37 ounces of cocaine valued at $100,000 in the illicit market, plus 8 ounces of heroin.

The other two were seized in their homes, with Morales allegedly having eight ounces of heroin in his possession, cutting equipment and a scale for weighing the drug.

AUTHORITIES DESCRIBED Escalona and Morales as partners in the ring, with Vento acting as courier.

The ring assertedly operated in Mexico, Peru, Bolivia, Cuba, the United States and Canada.

Police said information leading to the arrest of the trio was received by the U. S. Customs Service in March, 1954, following the seizure of 700 pounds of marijuana in Mexico.

In Bronx Felony Court early today, Morales was charged with possession of narcotics and intent to sell. Vento was charged with vagrancy.

Escalona was held in the Astoria police station, Queens, on a charge of possessing narcotics.

and students, also are illegally imprisoned, the California Republican said.

Knowland declared the United Nations should, within a "short time," tell the world what it is prepared to do if the men are not released.

"I do not intend to remain silent while a single American rots in a prison cell," Knowland told the meeting.

Turning to the Far East in general, Knowland called on the United States to set forth a line "beyond which we will not permit further Communist aggression in Asia."

HE URGED the nation to operate "from a position of strength not weakness." Knowland termed appeasement a "dubious policy" which should be avoided.

Earlier, at a news conference, he said the nation's failure to take a stand in the Pacific if the Reds take over all of Asia could mean "moving our line of defense back to Oregon."

"The spread of communism in Asia is the challenge to the United States," said Knowland, who has differed with President Eisenhower relating to Asian plans.

New Jersey . . .

received a report that Mrs. Lindquist had been missing from her home and was believed at that time to be headed toward Florida with Leadbeater.

The couple had become acquainted in a club they both frequented, Coroner McCardle said.

Leadbeater, a veteran of World War 1, had been in poor health, the coroner said.

No suicide note was found, but investigation of all evidence pointed to a double suicide, according to the coroner.

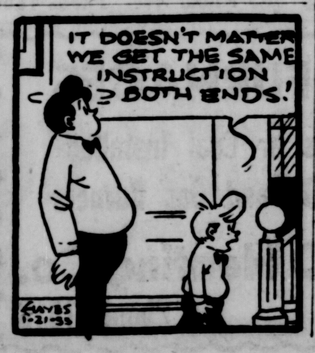

THE SMALL CYLINDER of menthyl chloride was of the type used in refrigerator repair work, which Leadbeater had done in spare time from his regular job, authorities said.

The bodies were removed to the McCardle Funeral Home and later transferred to the New York-New Jersey Crematory at North Bergen, where cremation of Leadbeater was scheduled for 11 a. m. Saturday and that of Mrs. Linquist for 2 p. m. Saturday.

MENTIONED — Career diplomat Donald Heath is reported in line as the next U. S. ambassador to Lebanon. He formerly served as U. S. ambassador to Indo-China.

major noticeable refurbishing being to the cocktail lounge, which is now one of the most modern and attractive in the area.

Requirements of the Multiple Dwelling Law were met through expenditure of $10,000 on the hotel annex and apartment building in the rear of the main building.

Directors were reelected and voted to refinance existing financial obligations through a first mortgage on the hotel premises and retire the existing first mortgage and the remaining second mortgage bonds.

A mortgage for $150,000 to refinance existing obligations will be used to retire a first mortgage held by the Metropolitan Insurance Company for $40,000 and to pay the remaining second mortgage bonds which were issued at the time the hotel capacity was increased through erection of an addition. There remain second mortgage bonds for $99,600 which become due on February 1.

Reelected directors are A. H. Wicks, Peter A. Black, W. Anderson Carl, N. J. Fowler, R. R. Gross, A. J. Burns, Stanley Matthews, S. E. Hockenbury, T. A. Dandrew.

Financial reports were given by W. A. Carl, treasurer, and N. Jansen Fowler, acting secretary, reported on the year's business. A report was presented by T. A. Dandrew for Manager R. B. Gross, who was absent due to illness. Dandrew reported the property in good condition and he too predicted improved business.

The board of directors will meet later to elect officers and organize.

Narcotics Ring ReportedSmashed

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—Police and federal agents have announced the smashing of a six-nation narcotics ring, climaxing 10 months of detective work by seizing two alleged ringleaders and a courier.

In coordinated moves yesterday, authorities arrested Regula Escalona, 35, of Mexico City; William Morales, 29, of (145 East 150th street) the Bronx, and Nicholas Vento, 23, of (834 Brady avenue) the Bronx.

Escalona was taken into custody as he was about to board a Boston-bound plane. Police said he had in his luggage 37 ounces of cocaine valued at $100,000 in the illicit market, plus 8 ounces of heroin.

The other two were seized in their homes, with Morales allegedly having eight ounces of heroin in his possession, cutting equipment and a scale for weighing the drug.

AUTHORITIES DESCRIBED Escalona and Morales as partners in the ring, with Vento acting as courier.

The ring assertedly operated in Mexico, Peru, Bolivia, Cuba, the United States and Canada.

Police said information leading to the arrest of the trio was received by the U. S. Customs Service in March, 1954, following the seizure of 700 pounds of marijuana in Mexico.

In Bronx Felony Court early today, Morales was charged with possession of narcotics and intent to sell. Vento was charged with vagrancy.

Escalona was held in the Astoria police station, Queens, on a charge of possessing narcotics.

and students, also are illegally imprisoned, the California Republican said.

Knowland declared the United Nations should, within a "short time," tell the world what it is prepared to do if the men are not released.

"I do not intend to remain silent while a single American rots in a prison cell," Knowland told the meeting.

Turning to the Far East in general, Knowland called on the United States to set forth a line "beyond which we will not permit further Communist aggression in Asia."

HE URGED the nation to operate "from a position of strength not weakness." Knowland termed appeasement a "dubious policy" which should be avoided.

Earlier, at a news conference, he said the nation's failure to take a stand in the Pacific if the Reds take over all of Asia could mean "moving our line of defense back to Oregon."

"The spread of communism in Asia is the challenge to the United States," said Knowland, who has differed with President Eisenhower relating to Asian plans.

New Jersey . . .

received a report that Mrs. Lindquist had been missing from her home and was believed at that time to be headed toward Florida with Leadbeater.

The couple had become acquainted in a club they both frequented, Coroner McCardle said.

Leadbeater, a veteran of World War 1, had been in poor health, the coroner said.

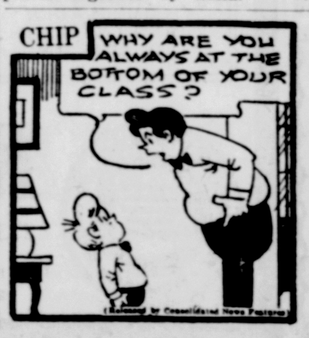

No suicide note was found, but investigation of all evidence pointed to a double suicide, according to the coroner.

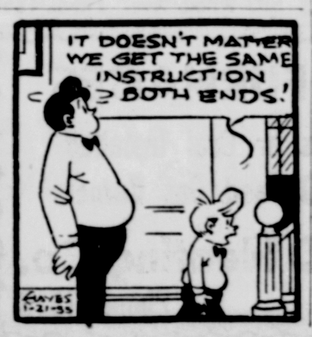

THE SMALL CYLINDER of menthyl chloride was of the type used in refrigerator repair work, which Leadbeater had done in spare time from his regular job, authorities said.

The bodies were removed to the McCardle Funeral Home and later transferred to the New York-New Jersey Crematory at North Bergen, where cremation of Leadbeater was scheduled for 11 a. m. Saturday and that of Mrs. Linquist for 2 p. m. Saturday.

Visitors . . .

through the UN to make arrangements for a trip.

The secretary general from the beginning of his mission has had uppermost in his mind the anxiety of the families about the health and the condition of the Americans and it is believed he made a special effort to inquire on that point and then he received the assurances of their well-being.

A United Nations official, insisting that his name not be used, told reporters there is a feeling in UN quarters that the relatives' visit might expedite release of the prisoners. He said the feeling among some people in the UN secretariat is that the Chinese might take the opportunity to commute a prisoner's sentence and release him to return home with the relative.

No official here would talk about that on a quotable basis.

U. S. Will Not Extend Any Protection

Philadelphia, Jan. 21 (AP)—The wife of an American airman held prisoner by Chinese Reds disclosed today she has been informed by the Defense Department that the U. S. can not extend protection and facilities for a visit with her husband under the agreement between the Reds and the United Nations.

Mrs. Judith Heller, wife of Lt. Col. Edwin Heller, said the Defense Department telegram pointed out that the U. S. does not maintain diplomatic relations with the Chinese Reds.

"I am definitely not going," Mrs. Heller said.

"I don't think Ed would want me to go. I have the children to consider if anything would happen."

Iowa Parents Would Go to See Their Son

Swea City, Iowa, Jan. 21 (AP)—The parents of Capt. Harold Fischer, Jr., Iowa double jet ace, said today they plan to go to China to visit their son who is among the Americans held in Red Chinese jails.

Mrs. Harold Fischer, Sr., said at their farm home here that she and her husband will leave as soon as arrangements for the trip can be made. Both were overjoyed at the prospects of seeing their son, who was shot down over Korea in April, 1953.

However, they have had no official word that Capt. Fischer is one of the 17 Americans whose relatives will be allowed to visit them.

Mrs. Fischer disclosed that she had written Red Premier Chou En-Lai several times asking permission to visit Harold but received no reply.

"Last Saturday, my husband wrote the premier once again, sending an airmail," she said. "Naturally, we are happy that it now seems probable we can go."

The latest letters the parents received from Capt. Fischer gave renewed hope he soon would be released.

heard in Tokyo, stressed the importance of the Yikiangshan action in Red China's "campaign to liberate the coastal islands and ultimately Taiwan itself."

(Peiping said captured stores on Yikiangshan included 2 105 mm. howitzers, 1 field gun, 17 trench mortars, 6 automatic cannons and antitank guns, 110 machineguns and rocket launchers, more than 300 rifles, carbines and submachine guns, 110,000 rounds of ammunition and nearly 9,000 rounds of artillery shells.)

A NATIONALIST spokesman said the Communists long had trumpeted their intention of seizing the offshore islands and added:

"With the fall of Yikiangshan they'll try even more to get the Tachens." The two main islands are defended by 20,000 Nationalist troops.

Attorney Suing Rockefellers for $100,000 in Fees

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—Joseph Sax, a Boston attorney, is suing Barbara (Bobo) Rockefeller and her ex-husband, Winthrop, for $100,000 which he claims was due him for legal services during their stormy marital career.

Sax, in State Supreme Court yesterday, contended he negotiated a settlement of the Rockefellers' differences in November, 1952, and had been promised up to $500,000.

SAX SAID that Bobo "had a justifiable cause for separation" from Rockefeller, whom he accused of "consorting adulterously with divers women other than his wife" and being "excessively addicted to intoxicating liquors."

Sax also hurled personal charges against Bobo. In November, 1952, he said, the wife "with the intent to deprive me of my fee did intentionally render impossible the consummation of the agreed settlement by deliberate and malicious, insulting and scandalous conduct and vile language toward and in the the presence of myself, Winthrop Rockefeller and his attorney, by physically assaulting me, her husband and the latter's attorney."

MRS. ROCKEFELLER said "The personal charges against me are untrue," and added:

"At Mr. Sax's solicitation, I retained him upon his representation that he could effect a reconciliation with Winthrop Rockefeller in November of 1952, which he was unable to accomplish. He was dismissed upon his failure.

"A check was sent to him in the full amount previously agreed upon for his services. This check was returned without comment by Mr. Sax."

THE AMOUNT of the check was not disclosed.

Through a spokesman yesterday, Rockefeller said he knew nothing about the suit and would have no comment on Sax's allegations.

Bobo and Winthrop were divorced in Reno last August, with Mrs. Rockefeller receiving a reported six-million-dollar settlement and custody of their son, Winthrop Jr., now 7.

Living Costs Are Lower

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—The government reported today that lower food prices in December brought the nation's living costs to their lowest level since May, 1953.

The report showed prices of living cost items at the end of the year 1954 were one-half of one per cent below the level at the year's start. It was the first time since 1948 that the government living cost index had showed an over-the-year decline.

Substantially lower prices for eggs, pork chops and poultry led the December decline.

through the UN to make arrangements for a trip.

The secretary general from the beginning of his mission has had uppermost in his mind the anxiety of the families about the health and the condition of the Americahs and it is believed he made a special effort to inquire on that point and then he received the assurances of their well-being.

A United Nations official, insisting that his name not be used, told reporters there is a feeling in UN quarters that the relatives' visit might expedite release of the prisoners. He said the feeling among some people in the UN secretariat is that the Chinese might take the opportunity to commute a prisoner's sentence and release him to return home with the relative.

No official here would talk about that on a quotable basis.

U. S. Will Not Extend Any Protection

Philadelphia, Jan. 21 (AP)—The wife of an American airman held prisoner by Chinese Reds disclosed today she has been informed by the Defense Department that the U. S. can not extend protection and facilities for a visit with her husband under the agreement between the Reds and the United Nations.

Mrs. Judith Heller, wife of Lt. Col. Edwin Heller, said the Defense Department telegram pointed out that the U. S. does not maintain diplomatic relations with the Chinese Reds.

"I am definitely not going," Mrs. Heller said.

"I don't think Ed would want me to go. I have the children to consider if anything would happen."

Iowa Parents Would Go to See Their Son

Swea City, Iowa, Jan. 21 (AP)—The parents of Capt. Harold Fischer, Jr., Iowa double jet ace, said today they plan to go to China to visit their son who is among the Americans held in Red Chinese jails.

Mrs. Harold Fischer, Sr., said at their farm home here that she and her husband will leave as soon as arrangements for the trip can be made. Both were overjoyed at the prospects of seeing their son, who was shot down over Korea in April, 1953.

However, they have had no official word that Capt. Fischer is one of the 17 Americans whose relatives will be allowed to visit them.

Mrs. Fischer disclosed that she had written Red Premier Chou En-Lai several times asking permission to visit Harold but received no reply.

"Last Saturday, my husband wrote the premier once again, sending an airmail," she said. "Naturally, we are happy that it now seems probable we can go."

The latest letters the parents received from Capt. Fischer gave renewed hope he soon would be released.

Attorney Suing Rockefellers for $100,000 in Fees

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—Joseph Sax, a Boston attorney, is suing Barbara (Bobo) Rockefeller and her ex-husband, Winthrop, for $100,000 which he claims was due him for legal services during their stormy marital career.

Sax, in State Supreme Court yesterday, contended he negotiated a settlement of the Rockefellers' differences in November, 1952, and had been promised up to $500,000.

SAX SAID that Bobo "had a justifiable cause for separation" from Rockefeller, whom he accused of "consorting adulterously with divers women other than his wife" and being "excessively addicted to intoxicating liquors."

Sax also hurled personal charges against Bobo. MRS. ROCKEFELLER said "The personal charges against me are untrue," and added:

"At Mr. Sax's solicitation, I retained him upon his representation that he could effect a reconciliation with Winthrop Rockefeller in November of 1952, which he was unable to accomplish. He was dismissed upon his failure.

"A check was sent to him in the full amount previously agreed upon for his services. This check was returned without comment by Mr. Sax."

THE AMOUNT of the check was not disclosed.

Through a spokesman yesterday, Rockefeller said he knew nothing about the suit and would have no comment on Sax's allegations.

Bobo and Winthrop were divorced in Reno last August, with Mrs. Rockefeller receiving a reported six-million-dollar settlement and custody of their son, Winthrop Jr., now 7.
